Attempted child abduction foiled

Children knew exactly how to react

By STEPHEN BJORK

TEWKSBURY - A Tewksbury man was arrested last week and was charged with the attempted abduction of two Whipple Road children, according to Tewksbury Police.

According to Sgt. John Barry of the Tewksbury Police, at approximately 4:30 p.m. on Thursday, June 2, a white van driven by an adult male pulled up alongside two children, a boy and a girl aged 10 and 11,

Tierney discusses Social Security reform

Wilmington residents participate in town meeting format

By MICHAEL LANE

WILMINGTON - United States Representative John Tierney held a town meeting forum at the Buzzell Senior Center on Saturday, June 11, to address citizens concerns on social security. In addition to social security, Tierney addressed citizens concerns on other subjects, from the Iraq War to Immigration.

Tierney supports the current system of social security and opposes President Bush's plan to privatize social security.

Tierney called social security a "masterpiece" and described it as the only guaranteed retirement benefit. Furthermore, according to Tierney, knowing social security is there, allows people to take risks they might

The sky was the limit for Ripley Miller

Wilmington's original female pilot is immortalized in a new book

By STEPHEN BJORK

WILMINGTON - During the heyday of Tewksbury's Tew-Mac Airport, pilots were often heard to say, "If you can fly at Tew-Mac, you can fly anywhere."

Wilmington's Ripley Miller flew at Tew-Mac. She flew anywhere and everywhere else as well.

In "A Long White Scarf, Flying with Ripley Miller," Julia Doten chronicles the life and times of a woman with a pioneering spirit undeterred by societal boundaries.

Ripley was a typical 1960's wife and mother when she discovered her love for flying. It was Ken, her husband, that initially began flying, but once exposed to the open skies it wasn't long before Ripley managed to pass him by. Their plane had homemade labels identifying the pilot's control as "His" and the co-pilot's control as "Hers." "(The labels) were a reminder," Doten tells us in the

A woman pilot was a novelty during those years. The newspaper articles were endless, appearing in the Boston Globe, the Boston Herald, the Lowell Sun, and the Town Crier. She appeared on most of the major Boston radio shows and had three children who also excels in baking treats and in finding the perfect items to include in Christmas stockings. The book effectively and compellingly intertwines both worlds. Doten's tireless research of documents and articles, coupled with extensive interviews of Ripley's friends and peers, enables her to accurately chronicle Ripley's professional life in a style that is pleasing to the reader, but when it comes to Ripley's family life, Doten has a special advantage. Doten is Julia's married name. She grew up as Ripley's youngest daughter and would be more recognizable to her Wilmington High School Classmates as Julie Miller.

"As a family in the sixties in suburban America, we have a fairly typical and predictable home life," Doten writes. "It is

The book is certainly about a progressive woman breaking down barriers with grace and character, but equally it is about a wife and mother of

Ongoing struggle to preserve history

Strong support to preserve Butters Farm evident

By BRENDAN LEWIS

WILMINGTON - Work continues, with local support, for the Wilmington Historical Commission's efforts to preserve the 323-year old Butters Farm house.

The current property owners have entered into a purchase and sale agreement with Wilmington developer Joseph Langone for the plot of land in which the house was built as well as the five other plots surrounding it. Langone's plans are to build high-end housing on the land, which would lead to the demolition of the historic structure.

The Historical Commission is striving to save the house by meeting the purchase price within the 120-day window allotted by Massachusetts state law. Because the land has been classified as agricultural and has thus benefited from tax breaks over the years, state law provides the Town with right of first refusal.

The only hurdle for the organization is that the price tag is

Citizen Advisory Panel disbanded by B.O.S.

Selectmen buck CAP recommendation

By STEPHEN BJORK

WILMINGTON - During its June 13 meeting, the Board of Selectmen voted to disband the Community Advisory Panel (CAP) as it currently exists. Members were encouraged, however, to reorganize as an independent advisory panel.

The CAP was originally established and members appointed in 2002 to review water quality issues, particularly in the Olin Chemical and Maple Meadow Landfill (MML) areas. Membership of the CAP includes concerned residents as well as Town officials. During the life of the CAP, according to CAP members, many of

Tewksbury street closings

Sewer expansion continues

TEWKSBURY From Monday June 27, 2004 through August 30, 2005

As the Town's Sewer Expansion Project continues, traffic patterns will be affected. All contractors have been instructed to work on the following streets during school vacations only. Throughout the entire summer vacation some portion of these streets will be under construction.

Only residents and business customers will be allowed to enter. Through traffic will not be allowed. Please watch for all detour signs and plan your travel accordingly. Message boards and hard signs will be posted to assist your travel.

Police details will be on site and will be informed of day to day progress so they will be able to assist local residents.

This notice applies to the following streets:

Shawsheen Street from Main Street to East Street (see note below) Shawsheen Street from Main along the cemetery. Work will be done at the back of the cemetery to make the connection to the existing system. Traffic will be detoured to Foster/Beech. This will take about one week. The crew will then move to Shawsheen on the other side of Main St. and continue up towards East St.

Trull Road from Andover St. (Rt. 133) to Old Main St.

Work will begin on the North side of Rt. 495

South St. from Bridge St. to Andover

The emergency access road at Regina S Dr. will be available to passenger and emergency vehicles. When the construction on South has passed Regina S that route will not be an option. The contractor may decide to begin work on South at Regina S and move toward Andover.

Whittemore St. from East St. to Maple St. (this will begin mid-July)

We appreciate your patience during this project. Please be assured that this decision has been thoroughly discussed. The disruption caused by this closing will be offset by the efficiency afforded to the crews. They will be able to complete this installation in a shorter time frame.

It's Your Money

by Joyce Brisbois

PART-TIME RETIREMENT

According to a recent study, nearly two-thirds of older workers would cut back and work part-time before retiring completely—or even after retirement—if it didn't jeopardize their retirement benefits. Most defined-benefit pension plans, though, are based on the employee's last three to five years' of pay, so cutting back would cut pensions, too.

The IRS has proposed new regulations that would allow employees who are at least 59 1/2 and who reduce their hours by at least 20 percent to collect partial pension benefits while continuing to work. The worker would continue to earn pension benefits, while those earned on an earlier, higher pay would be protected. It's especially helpful for those too young for Social Security.

IRS rules already allow workers with defined-contribution 401(k) plans to withdraw money at age 59 1/2, although some companies forbid such distribution while the employee is still working.

We follow possible and probable future changes in the tax law, the better to serve you at:

Red Cross says:

Demand for blood products increasing

Local blood drive, July 2 at Masonic Hall

American Red Cross and Wilmington Community team up to boost blood supply

The uncertainty of the times in which we live require a new commitment to maintain a 5-10 day community blood supply.

That's why the Wilmington Community, and the American Red Cross are teaming up to help ensure that a safe and adequate blood supply is available when needed. Please continue supporting your family, friends, neighbors and coworkers by donating blood on Saturday, July 2, 2005 at Masonic Hall, 32 Church Street, Wilmington. Donor hours are 9:00 a.m. - 2:00 p.m.

The fact is, nearly 1,600 units of blood are needed each day to help those in need right here in our own community. It is a challenge to collect enough blood to meet the needs of hospital patients year round.

It only takes about an hour of time - and one small pinch - to become a hero to someone in need. Giving the "Gift of Life" is one way to help those in need. Every blood donation is an opportunity to help an accident victim, a surgical patient, or a child battling leukemia, to name a few.

Anyone 17 years of age or older, weighing 110 pounds or more and feeling in good health may be eligible to donate blood. Please call 1-800-GIVE-LIFE (1-800-448-3543) with any questions about donating blood, or visit our website at: www.newengland-blood.org

Letters to the editor

Fundraising success

Dear Editor:

I would like to thank the Members of the St. William's Men's Club who ran the spaghetti supper this past weekend for the Tewksbury Community Pantry. Through their efforts and donations from many individuals and organizations in town we were able to raise over $4000 in support of the Food Pantry's initiative to add on to their existing building.

I have many people to thank but those I would most like to thank first are the businesses and organizations that donated food and services. Those include:

French's Restaurant and Catering Service

The Push Cart

Knights of Columbus

Market Basket

Wilmington Shriners

Tewksbury PAL

Without the help and support of these groups we would have not been able to provide these funds to the food pantry. Again, thanks to all that supported us for this worthy cause and best of luck to the Tewksbury Community Pantry.

Sincerely yours,

Jerome E. "Jerry" Selissen

Spaghetti Supper Chairman

Tewksbury

Food Pantry grateful

Dear Editor:

On behalf of the Tewksbury Community Pantry board of directors and those residents the pantry serves, I want to thank the St. William Men's Guild for the tremendous support they offered this past weekend by hosting a spaghetti supper to benefit the pantry's building fund. The guild's initiative was much appreciated and is yet one more shining example of the generosity the members have shown to the pantry and those we serve over the years. Their efforts resulted in a much needed $4,000.00 donation to the building fund.

I also want to thank the Tewksbury community for generously supporting this event. Over the past few years, the pantry has outgrown its current facility as the number of households utilizing the pantry on a monthly basis has increased. It is striking that he pantry presently serves approximately 120 households representing around 500 individuals.

Time and again, the pantry's board of directors has been impressed with the level of support offered by our community. While times are not so good for many in our midst, the pantry has had reliable support from many in Tewksbury - businesses, civic organizations, the US Postal Service, our schools, and religious organizations, to name a few. Without the generosity of many, we could not help those less fortunate in our town.

As president of the pantry board I want to offer my sincere gratitude to the St. William Men's Guild and the many people who supported their effort to contribute to our planned expansion.

Sincerely,

Todd R. Johnson

Standing Eight Count

by Stephen Bjork

I think that everybody has occasional moments of self-doubt now and then. Moments when you wonder just what exactly has become of your life. It is perfectly normal.

I can't say I experience such moments very often, but I had one hit me hard the other day. I was driving down Route 38 at the time and it was an absolutely beautiful day. The windows were open and the radio was on. I had a nice big cup of fresh Dunkin' Donuts coffee in my hand and was heading toward Tewksbury. Plus I had a zip lock baggie of fresh cat-poop on the passenger seat.

The cat-poop was no accident. I had spent the previous 15 minutes sitting cross-legged on the floor outside the litter box with my trusty pooper-scooper in hand while my abnormally shy kitten went about his business.

Bagheera, who is solid black, was named after the panther from the Jungle Book and has been living in our house for nearly three months and during that entire stretch of time I have endeavored to retrieve a fresh stool sample for those freaks down at the Veterinarian's office.

This task has proven especially difficult since we have two other cats prowling the house - gotta catch him in the act to be sure it is his.

It didn't seem like a big deal at first, I figured that I was bound to see him head into the door of the fully enclosed litter box at some point. He proved to be, however, a true poop-ninja.

At one point, in an act of utter desperation, I locked him in a room for three days with nothing but a litter box, a dish full of Metamucil, a dozen bran muffins, and a bowl of prune juice. Nothing!

Meanwhile, the vet's office has been calling me every week asking if the matter had slipped my mind. I'm sure they were having a great ole' time. I guarantee the whole office gathered around the telephone each and every time for a big laugh.

"Hey everybody, I'm going to call that guy about the cat poop. Shh, quiet! It's ringing. Hello, Mr. Bjork? We haven't seen a stool sample from Bagheera yet. Umm, do you still own the cat? Uh, huh. And you are giving him food?"

"Am I on a speaker phone?" Our other two cats, Achilles and Kit Kat, were fully aware of my prolonged dilemma and openly mocked me. They'd sneak into the box and then make all kinds of digging and scratching noises. To their unending delight, I'd come running down the stairs expectantly just in time to see one of the wrong two cats sauntering out of the box.

So there I was, driving down Main Street with fresh poop; mission accomplished, feeling downright victorious when it struck me - I'm 36 years old.

I'm a grown man and this has all but dominated my thought process for nearly three months.

I really doubt my father ever drove around with cat poop in his car and I guarantee my grandfather never did. Back in those days, if the cat produced poop at all, it was considered to be a mighty healthy cat. Once it stopped pooping, you went out and got a new cat.

I don't think these three cats are ever going to stop pooping. I am forever scooping their box, and they show up on the scene every single time to supervise the operation and to make sure I do it correctly. They always wear a vague expression of, "What took so long?" and "It's about freakin' time you got around to this."

In my mid-thirties and reporting to a trio of cats. That's what it has come down to for me.

I know they don't respect me; that's the worst of it. Every once in a while I'll catch one of them just staring at me and I know exactly what is going through their mind at that moment; "If I was just a little bit bigger I would eat you."

By the time I pulled into the vet's parking lot my mood had completely deteriorated. I picked up the bag-o-poop and shuffled all slope-shouldered into the office and through the crowded waiting room. Men, women, children; they all saw me carrying the poop.

Then, the poop and I had to wait in line. Two people were in front of me dealing with very time consuming non-poop related issues.

Take this advice; if you are going to walk into a veterinarian's office with your pet's poop, bring the pet too. Everybody else has their pets with them. There I was with nothing but a poop in a bag. I just felt like I owed those people some sort of explanation.

"My cat made this," I told one old lady. She pretended not to hear me.

The real salt in the wound, of course, was that after all of that, I had to pay them $20 to take it from me. It's bad enough to openly bring poop into a public place, but then to have to pull out a twenty as well; that is simply cruel and unusual.

I paid with a credit card. Do you understand what I'm saying? I put Pet Poop Testing on a credit card. The vet very discreetly itemized it as "Laboratory Services."

Y'know what? I don't even think they test it at all. I'm convinced that it is nothing more than a big veterinary scam to see how many numbskulls they can convince to bring in animal feces. They get together at annual conventions, compare numbers and giggle their faces off.

I swear I heard that zip lock bag hit the bottom of the trash barrel as I walked out of the office.

Everything's A Story

by Andrea MacMullin

Today, in the midst of preparing for the end of the school year and the summer months ahead, Father's Day is once again upon us. I sometimes feel bad for all those Dads who wait in anticipation for the big day, only to be forgotten in a weekend of flurry.

Us Mothers would never stand for that. We want it all. Cards, made by little hands, flowers, and breakfast in bed. The day off or even alone is warranted by some, with little or no care given to housework or chores.

Not many Fathers can make those demands. Why is this? Maybe all those Dads are used to taking the backseat. I'm sure there is more than one household where Dad gets the leftovers from dinner when he arrives home late from work. Worse still, he gets to choose between Kellogg's or General Mills for his last meal of the day. It is not fair.

Gone are the days when Dad arrives to the "Leave it to Beaver" home. Remember that? No hot meal, no cold drink, and no neat and tidy house. Dad usually arrives home to chaos and mayhem.

I remember not too long ago reading an excerpt from a high school Home Economics (remember when they had Home EC?) textbook, dated from the fifties. It was suggested that a wife, after performing her daily chores, should freshen up a bit before her husband arrives home for work, since he has had a long, hard day, and shouldn't have to deal with the complications of the home. A new application of lipstick, a precisely placed ribbon in the hair, would do just fine.

Sorry guys, I doubt that will ever happen in this lifetime. Some of us are lucky if we have showered, or have made it home from work ourselves and picked up the kids.

The Dads of this generation are different. It begins in the delivery room, where they have an active role in the birth of their children. They change diapers, warm bottles, and yes, sometimes even get up in the middle of the night.

It continues through the years, Dads taking their place on the ball fields, coaching T-Ball. I've even had the pleasure of seeing a Dad and his Father coaching together the youngest of their own generation.

So many of the Dads I know, my own included, quietly enjoy the pleasures of their life. They don't look for recognition; they don't expect the fanfare that is do to them. They are the quiet, unsung heroes who are looked upon by children as the stoic, larger than life individual who is the center of the family.

Happy Father's Day to all.

Letters to the editor

This Memorial Day wasn't the first time

A Wilmington eyesore

Dear Editor,

Let me start with this. When the chips are down, the Wilmington Police Officers can be counted on, going above and beyond the call of duty, whether on or off duty at the time. This is a fact; a well known fact.

In answer to last week's (6/1/05) editorial and the officers' response, we all know that the police department is a 24/7 operation. If an officer is out, let's say ill or on "comp time", someone has to fill in and that officer is usually doing so on overtime. So, say what you want, paid or "comp time", it is costing the taxpayer for police officers to march in parades.

I was the Korean War Veteran referred to in the Town Crier's latest editorial. I heard from several people at the Memorial Day Parade that the police did not march because they were not going to be paid. I told you, the editor, about it the following Wednesday morning and you, the editor, called the town manager and the chief of police while I was still in the Town Crier offices. The town manager stated that "No funding would be available." When the police chief was asked the same question, he refused to take part in such a discussion. He stated that two members of the force did participate. I have to read between the lines on why he wouldn't discuss this further.

This past week I saw on the news there was a ceremony in boston to recognize fallen police officers, while I agree this a duty of all to honor these men and women for their devotion to duty, I have to ask: Were these men and women attending the ceremony offered comp time?

In the letter signed by all those officers, in the third paragraph which begins: "During the past ten years." The letter states, "In each instance it had been understood, with the approval of police management, that members would not receive pay but would rather be compensated with time off commensurate with the number of hours spent at each particular ceremony."

Until this time I never knew that the police were paid, sorry; I meant compensated, to attend funerals as a unit.

I wish to quote the editor, "further understand that no one on the department is, nor should any of them be duty bound to attend." This is very, very true. If they choose to participate it should be because it is the right thing to do.

In the fourth paragraph of the officers' letter, they state that in 2004 they all showed up. It states "In what is assumed was a show of his appreciation for a job well done, the Chief offered each participant the option of receiving four hours pay or eight hours time off. The Chief made this offer after the parade and ceremonies had concluded and officers had returned to the police station."

Paragraph three says one thing; paragraph four another.

There were three letters on last week's opinion page, one signed by many police officers and two by individual police officers. All three critical of the editor offering opinions on what he should have done, what he did, etc. In my opinion he was right.

This writer remembers when the Memorial Day Parade was run by the American Legion, V.F.W. and the D.A.V. The parade was led by the police dept. One year it was decided by the committee that the veterans units would lead the parade and that each year those units would take turns leading the parades and providing the parade marshal. The police were put in the second division. THE POLICE REFUSED TO PARTICIPATE and did not march for years. I have no idea when they started again. It was either their way or they wouldn't march. They had to lead.

The bottom line is, the police officers did not march because I will let you decide for yourselves, but I believe you know how I feel. This is the second time the police officers have refused, for one reason or another. Will there be a third?

Sincerely,
Tom Marden

Wilmington's Butters Farm

No longer quiet

Dear Editor,

For many decades, years, and much to the housing developer's chagrin who wants it mowed down as soon as possible, minutes, the Butters farm has long since been a landmark of the Wilmington Community and its residents.

Alongside the landmark belongs a special meaning and significance in the hearts of both Chestnut Street and Wilmington Residents alike. Wilmington residents have been accustomed to seeing and enjoying the few existing landmarks that help to maintain Wilmington's rural country feel we all know and love. The Butters farm is an intricate and furthermore, irreplaceable part of this feeling and ambiance.

In my teenage years I spent a summer working at the Butters farm. I cut a deal with owner Velma and Curt Emery, that in exchange for work I could ride their horses. That is exactly what I did. I spent an entire summer there, a few times a week, Hauling manure and re-covering floors with hay, so that the horses would have a clean dry area to live. One other experience I had because of Butters farm was that I got to take a high speed horse and buggy ride. What I remember most was the rapidness of the bumps and the fact that I was holding the owner's small terrier in my arms as she steer the buggy down the long back woods path. I remember holding on for dear life. Alas!

It was part of my youth, and so therefore, it is a memory I will never forget. I personally would really hate to see it be mowed down.

In the past few years Residents, such as myself have been witness to the slow "upbuilding" of what was once our small quaint town into a hub of construction and traffic. People like myself have watched and reluctantly kept quiet. All the mean while looking at places like the Butter's farm and counting our blessings that, at least we still have places like Chestnut Street with historic areas and rural farms.

My biggest fear is that in this era of having to have bigger and better houses, cars, and basical-

Butters Farm regional issue

Dear Editor,

Thanks to a friend in Lexington, I was made aware of the recent article in the Boston Globe about the possibility of tearing down the house on the Butters Farm in your town. As you can imagine by seeing my last name, I am saddened to hear that you would allow this to happen. This building is not only part of my history and heritage but also that of the towns of Wilmington, Woburn and we do not hold dear their existence and contributions made so many years ago, then we indeed diminish the very framework of your town and of this country.

William Butter (no "s" on the first generation's name) came here from Scotland in 1665 and settled in the Boggy Meadow area of South Wilmington that at that time was part of Woburn. Many of his descendants subsequently built homes (8 or more) and a schoolhouse there. Due to this, it became known as the Butters Row district. Sadly, this is the last structure that is left standing. From this group of homes fourteen fathers and sons, all named "Butters", shouldered their muskets to defend their newly formed country in the Revolutionary War. Few families can claim a larger representation than this. How then can we consider destroying our last ties to this precious history?

I implore you to please reconsider your approval of this action and see your way clear to allow the Butters Farm house to remain standing as a testament to all that our forefathers contributed to your town and this great country.

Thank you for your consideration of this important matter. Sincerely,

Nancy Butters
Concord

ly more money, this supposed "betterment" in our town will be the same force that turns any trace of the small rural town into extinction. Without Butter farm we residents, would still live our lives. This is certainly true. The only problem is our lives will have a little void every time we pass by the "Once Butter's Farm", now $400,000 housing development.

A remaining link to the past

Dear Editor,

As a WHS alumni, I have been made aware that the future of the Butters Farm is in jeopardy.

The Butters Farm is one of a few remaining links to a time when orchards, pastureland & farmland dominated the landscape. It is indeed fortunate that the historic integrity of this house remains.

Not only is it part of Wilmington's history, it has an important place in American history - how many homes remaining in the United States were built in 1682? It is a gem of a farmhouse and you should be working towards listing it on the National Register of Historic Places.

Urge you to help save this historic treasure.

Sincerely,

Becky (Hartwell) Chin
WHS class of 1964

Destroying Butters Farm weakens the foundation of Wilmington and the U.S.

Dear Editor,

I was told about the recent article in the Boston Globe detailing the possibility of tearing down the house on the Butters Farm in your town. I am shocked to hear that you would allow this to happen. This building is a part of the history of the town of Wilmington. If you demolish it after having stood for 323 years you also destroy the heritage of the men and women who helped to create the United States. In so doing you would weaken the foundation of Wilmington and of our great country.

The home that you want to demolish is not only the oldest of the homes in the area of your town known as the Butters

Row district, but also probably the oldest in the town as a whole. The descendants of William Butter, very prominent members of the community starting in the late 1600's, built these homes and were instrumental in forming our country by fighting in the Revolutionary War. In destroying this home you are destroying that very history.

Please do not allow the Butters Farm house to be destroyed and instead consider it a tribute to all that these men and women have contributed to your town and our country's history.

Sincerely,
Craig Butters
Boston

Volunteer appreciation days at the Buzzell Senior Center

On June 1, 2005 the Wilmington Department of Elderly Services had their Annual Volunteer Appreciation Day event over 130 volunteers were recognized for their time and dedication to the department. Representative James Miceli's office delivered a House of Representatives Citations made up for all the volunteers stating "Your dedicated and committed service to the community. Through your volunteer work with the Buzzell Senior Center, you have made a positive an inspiring impact on our community. Thank you". We also had the Town Manager, Michael Caira and State Senator Bruce Tarr speak to all the volunteers and the important role volunteers have in our community. It was an opportunity for everyone to be acknowledged for all their hard work and dedication. At this time Joseph Paglia was presented with a plaque for his 10 years of service on the Wilmington Elderly Service Commission and George Webster was Honorable Mentioned for his over seven years of instructing our Water Colors Class. The listings below are all the volunteers that were recognized for all that they do to make the department as strong as it is today.

We would also like to take this opportunity to thank the Kiwanis Organization for the wonderful meal they served on June 6, 2005 to over 100 elders at the Buzzell Senior Center. It was a delicious cookout dinner with hamburgers, hot dogs, and chicken along with a brownie sundae dessert. We thank The Kiwanis Organization for all their support.

Lastly, we would like to thank Congressman Tierney for coming to the Buzzell Senior Center on Saturday June 11, 2005 to share information about the proposed changes in the Social Security Program. He was able to answer several questions from concerned citizens on other subjects as well. We will be having a follow up presentation on the new Medicare D program in the fall.

Those Seniors who have an appointment with Dr. Smith next Monday, June 20th, are reminded to check appointment time. It's a good idea to come to the Senior Center about 10 minutes before one's appointment.

An evening trip to see a Spinners game has been scheduled for next Wednesday, June 22nd.

The price of this trip has been reduced to $10 per person. Home pick-ups are available for this event. Departure time from the Senior Center will be 5:45 p.m. The Spinners games have always been great times for all...why not give it a try.

Departure time for the Foxwood day trip of next Thursday, June 23rd, is 7:00 a.m. sharp. Some seats may still be available. Please check with the staff on the status of this trip.

The Tewksbury Music Center and West Brothers Music will hold a piano and voice recital at the Senior Center on Saturday, June 25th. This event is free and refreshments will be served. The recital will begin at 11:00 a.m. and should prove to be delightful.

Mary Gaffney from Billerica Crossing will be at the Senior Center on Monday afternoon, June 27th for a "good health" presentation. The topic is a fun topic: "Birth order and what it reveals about you!" This presentation will begin at 1:00 p.m. in the main hall. All are welcome to this up-beat and refreshing afternoon.

The craft class has planned a trip to Quechee Gorge, Vermont. This trip will be held on Wednesday, June 29th. The trip cost is $6 with lunch on one's own at the Simmon Pearce "The Mill" restaurant.

During these hot and humid days of summer, people are reminded to keep cool by staying out of the direct sun, drink plenty of liquids, wear light clothing and a hat and keep the air in one's home or apartment circulating by using air conditioners or fans. Gardening and outside work should be done early in the day and people should not over exert themselves in this type of weather.

Happy Father's Day to all "Dads" and God Bless America!

Early Sunday morning motorcycle accident

Victim formerly of Wilmington

WOBURN - A Berwick, Maine man was killed in a motorcycle accident on Russell Street in West Woburn shortly before 2 a.m., Sunday.

Wayne D. Cormier, 25, of Berwick, Maine, was killed when he lost control of his motorcycle and first hit a curb, then a sign post at Silvermine Road in the area of the former Tarky School in West Woburn.

After hitting the sign, the victim was thrown from the motorcycle into a tree, police said.

The accident victim was pronounced dead at the scene. "He was in bad shape" said Police Chief Philip Mahoney. "He may have been alive for a few minutes (after the crash), but not very long."

Results from the investigation into the accident are still under review but according to a release from the Woburn Police Department this morning, "the preliminary investigation reveals that speed was a contributing factor in the crash."

Mahoney said there was no indication at this point drugs and/or alcohol were involved, but an autopsy will be done by the state medical examiner's office.

Due to the seriousness of the accident, Officer Charles King, head of the Woburn Police Department Accident Reconstruction Team, was immediately notified.

Chief Mahoney and the State Police were notified a short time later.

By 2:30 Sunday morning, the State Police Accident Reconstruction Team was at the scene followed a short time later by the state's Medical Examiners office.

A phone call was made to the Berwick, Maine Police Department to begin notifying the family at 4:30 a.m.

According to Mahoney, Cormier formerly lived in Wilmington and still had ties to the area, including friends living in Lexington.

Police said the accident victim was traveling east on Russell Street on his 1997 Yamaha motorcycle when the accident occurred.

A Woburn Center woman, 31, was placed into protective custody at the scene after causing a disturbance. The woman was reportedly a friend of the victim who arrived shortly after the crash. Police reported she was drunk.

The Woburn Center woman may also face assault-and-battery on a police officer charges after she allegedly poked a Woburn patrolman in the eye at the scene.

Officer John Maguire was taken to an area hospital for treatment. Chief Mahoney said the injury was not serious and he will probably be "out for the few days" from work.

Officer John Vallis was first on the scene with Woburn Fire Department emergency personnel. Capt. Richard Kelley supervised at the scene, with Sgt. John O'Neil and officers Robert Dowd, Dana Gately and Richard Gately.

Alexandra Prochorski works on her design for pair of jeans at the Traveling Pants Party on June 3 at the Wilmington Memorial Library. The party celebrated the release of the new film The Sisterhood of the Traveling Pants based on the bestselling book by the same name. Congratulations to Sara Briggs, Courtney Figucia, and Bethany Hanson, winners of the door prizes (movie passes and Traveling Pants book). Thank you to the Friends of the Library for donating the prizes

Wilmington Family Counseling Service serving youth through mentoring

With little fanfare, a dozen community leaders devote one-hour a week throughout the school year to giving a Middle/School student a better start in life. These mentors include engineers, retired fireman, bank tellers, teachers, secretaries, town managers, and planners. What they have in common is a belief that by mentoring a young person they are helping him or her to develop good social skills, responsible values, and a positive identity and to learn important life skills like decision making and conflict resolution.

This Mentor Adventure Program is one of the projects of the Wilmington School/Business Partnership whose mission is to bring the resources of the business community to help the Wilmington Public Schools maximize student learning experiences. Making the program happen at 2:00 in the afternoon when school closes are the local companies who are sharing their human resources by letting their employees take an hour out of their workday to help these mentees develop to their fullest potential. Companies participating are Neo Resins, Textron Systems, Analog Devices, Stoneham Savings Bank, Wilmington Family Counseling Service, and the Town of Wilmington.

The students who were mentored unanimously were enthusiastic about the program. Some of their comments about the benefits of having a mentor on the end of year questionnaire were: "Having a mentor made a difference in my life because I can talk to adults better. I always look forward to coming to school on Tuesdays." "Being more confident about myself and trying harder in school with homework."

"Confidence, stress relief, and stick-to-it-ness."

"We are looking forward to our fourth year of the program in the fall," explained Dr. Carol Golub from the Wilmington Family Counseling Service, Inc. who serves as the Chairperson of the Partnership Mentoring Committee. "Many mentors have participated in the program for three years and plan to continue. We also have three new people who want to join next year. We would like to encourage others in the community with an interest in youth development to participate. "To volunteer for the Mentor Adventure Program call Dr. Golub at 978-658-9889. "Not all mentors work in the business community. Some are retired, or some are stay-at-home mothers. All are people who want to use their time to make a meaningful contribution to the community."

Wilmington Arts Council 25th Annual Art Show

WILMINGTON - It has been twenty-five years since a small group of dedicated arts enthusiasts started an outdoor art show on the Wilmington Common as part of the 4th of July celebration. Since that time, the old town hall has been Wilmington Arts Center - a working art center with classes, concerts, rehearsals and a first rate art show.

There are still a few days to send in that entry for the show. Applications are available at the library, the town hall and the Arts Center. Categories include watercolor, oils and acrylics, photography, mixed media and other, and student work from those people taking classes at the Arts Center. There will be no new entries accepted on June 15, the night the artwork is brought in.

This year the show promises some music from the grand piano during the show. Several local musicians have volunteered to play during the show. There is also a hint of jazz in the air! John Metrona will be performing Sunday afternoon with his jazz group. The show is the most popular event of the season. Come and enjoy the beautiful art of the artists from Wilmington and surrounding towns.

Check out our active web site www.geocities.com/wilmingtonartscouncil. For more information about the show call Jane Crane at 978 658 9798.

Ryan Readers Review after school book discussion group breaks all records

TEWKSBURY - It has been a banner year for book reading this year at the John F. Ryan Elementary School in Tewksbury. From fall to spring a significant number of students chose to join an after school book discussion group: the Ryan Readers Review. On their own time, these students investigated and discussed an interesting selection of books:

October Tangerine, E. Bloor
November The Fighting Ground, Avi
January The Grand Escape, P. Naylor

March Jennifer Murdley's Toad, B. Coville

May Flying Solo, R. Fletcher
Attendance for each after school activity has ranged between 40 and 100 students. In addition, students who could not attend an after school session were encouraged to read these titles on their own. Over 76 students who read three of the five titles listed became eligible to vote for a Ryan School book award. The vote for the first Ryan Readers Review Book Award was held from May 31 to June 10. This year's award winning author is: Edward Bloor for his book, Tangerine.

School librarian, Mary Eldringhoff would like to credit the success of this program to the students themselves for finding time in their busy lives to include reading. She would also like to acknowledge the efforts of their parents and teachers. The enthusiasm for reading nurtured at the Dewing, Heath Brook, North Street and Trahan Schools continues to thrive at the Ryan School.

Thanks also to the staff of the Tewksbury Public Library who supported this literacy effort by providing as many copies of the discussion book as they could through the effective use of their library consortium. Particular appreciation goes to Ryan School Principal, Mr. Kevin McArdle for providing the financial seed money to launch this program.

The Ryan School Library is particularly grateful to the Tewksbury C. A. R. E. (Citizens Actively Reinforcing Education) Organization. With additional grant funding from this group, the Readers Review program was able to continue to grow. Grant funds were used to purchase enough books to support this large number of participants. The after school book discussion program will continue next year. Eighty paperback books have been purchased with a generous donation from Mr. Keith E. Rauseo.

Aristotle is credited with saying: "What we have to learn to do, we learn by doing." The Ryan Reviewers made a great choice to go the extra mile in their pursuit of literacy, and we all had fun in the process.

Horticultural Hints by the Wilmington Garden Club

Horticultural hints to get your garden through the heat of the summer and local water restrictions.

1) Check with your local officials regarding what type of water restrictions, if any, have been set.

2) Water less often, but slowly and deeply. Check with your local nursery for water saving granules that will last up to five years in the soil.

3) To check if you have watered sufficiently put a metal rod through the soil - it will glide easily through moist soil, but slowly through dry.

4) Consider drought tolerant plants:

Annuals: Verbena, Daisies, Sunflowers, Marigolds,

Portulaca, and Zinnias

Perennials: Black Eyed Susans, Evening Primrose, Yarrow, Gaura, Coreopsis and Penstemons

Watch for this column in the Town Crier twice a month.

Additional information and applications for membership in the Wilmington Garden Club can be obtained from the community bulletin board located at the Wilmington Memorial Library and also at the Town Hall located on Glen Road.

If you're looking for something different to do this summer, the Garden Club offers passes to The Garden in the Woods (available at the Wilmington Memorial Library).

Tierney discusses Social Security reform

otherwise not take

"As with any program, it needs to be adjusted at times," Tierney said. He cited the adjustment to social security made in the 80's during the Reagan administration as an example.

Tierney was critical of the president's spending habits.

"We had a projected $5.6 trillion surplus in 2000 and we (Democrats) thought it would be better to build social security back up, but the president thought it would be better to spend it on tax cuts," Tierney said. He said that the president's tax cuts primarily benefited the richest people. Tierney said since September 11th and the Iraq war, the nation's surplus is now gone.

According to Tierney, there is no problem with social security.

"The program is not in crisis," Tierney said. Tierney told the citizens at the Buzzell Senior Center that the social security trustees claim that the program will be paying out 100 percent of benefits through 2041 and will thereafter still be able to pay out 70 to 73 percent of benefits. However, he stated that the Congressional Budget Office predicts that social security will pay 100 percent of benefits through 2052 and will thereafter pay 80 percent of benefits.

He went on to criticize President Bush's policy on privatizing social security. Tierney said that it does nothing to address social security's finances. He said that his program will borrow money from social security for the private accounts. He claims that Bush's plan will add $5 trillion to the debt over 20 years.

Tierney agrees that the program needs to be adjusted. "But by no means is this an emergency crisis," Tierney said.

He wants to see congress sit down in a bi-partisan manner in order to take the time to come up with a solution that will address the problems with social security.

Tierney blamed a lot of social securities problems on the current administration and the debt that has been run up. He also includes spending over $300 billion on the war in Iraq, which Tierney noted that he didn't vote for, and a large increase in the Defense Department budget. He also blamed the Bush tax cuts again and said that they should not be extended past 2010.

Tierney's ideas for adjustments to the social security system include raising the retirement age to 70, raising the payroll tax by .5 percent points, reducing the initial benefits by 5 percent, and raising the cap on social security tax above the $90,000 limit.

Tierney entertained questions from the crowd on several subjects, including the problems surrounding illegal immigration. Tierney agreed that the immigration policies in the country need to be addressed and also noted that there are laws in place that would fine companies for hiring illegal immigrants, but they are not enforced.

The other major concern expressed was the status of the Iraq war. Residents wanted to know what the plan was and when the United States would be out of Iraq. Tierney didn't have a definitive answer saying only that the current administration is committed to staying until Iraqis are capable of defending their own country. Tierney and other members of congress, however, are trying to press the President on the issue. According to Tierney, the President is not being cooperative.

Ongoing struggle to preserve history

a short leap away from a half a million dollars.

Currently, the Commission must raise public awareness and implement a successful fundraising strategy to raise $450,000, if they want to protect the rare piece of American history located at 165 Chestnut St.

"We will look under every conceivable rock, and find a creative way to save this house," Commission Chairman Carolyn Harris said at Tuesday's meeting. Harris stresses the fact that there are so few houses not just in the Northeast but America that have been standing for that long and even fewer that have been lived in throughout the times.

A native of Wilmington, Langone has agreed to donate the house and a parcel of land, located directly behind where it currently sits, to the Town. This scenario would result in a large-scale project, along with accompanying price tag, to move the old building. Even so, only the 20' by 20' original section of the house would be lifted up and re-located.

Harris and the Commission have conducted extensive research on the house, even to the point of having professionals authenticate its age.

A multitude of groups have come in to inspect the house. One in particular, M&R Restoration, had found the house to be as old as was claimed and estimated the re-locating cost at between $40,000 and $50,000. Other companies made bold estimates as high $100,000, which is still a fraction of the price needed to acquire total interest in the property.

"Our goal is to purchase the property where it stands," Harris said. The Commission is of course fixed on keeping the house at its prime roadside location on Chestnut Street, but believes "the fact that he's [Langone] giving it to us is a step in the right direction."

The first step for the organization is to raise public awareness and to convince more citizens from Wilmington and surrounding towns to do the same. Harris urges people to write letters to the Wilmington Board of Selectmen.

"When they see a stack of letters, that translates to a stack of voters," Harris said, putting her promotional ideas into context.

Right now, the political forces are not swaying in the direction of historical preservation, as far as spending goes.

"We had a state budget three or four months ago. Had this occurred then, we would have had at least a quarter million to work with," State Representative James Miceli said. Miceli was part of the local support present at the Tuesday meeting in the sweltering Harnden Tavern, another historical site in Wilmington that had likewise been saved from impending demolition during the 1970's and was subsequently transformed into a town museum.

"We are looking for any sources we can find; any financial or fiscal vehicle to hook on to," Miceli said. He introduced the possibility of the town's applying for a particular state grant, which is usually slated for causes such as this. According to Miceli, the grant could provide as much as $100,000 as long as the application is filed by the June 24th deadline.

Other concerned townspeople have agreed to collectively obtain 200 signatures to submit an article to Town Meeting for the preservation of historical sites in town.

Citizens and the Commission will continue to collaborate and will endeavor to simultaneously work every available angle.

The Commission is determined to raise the required $450,000 in time for the September.

"I can recall when the Historical commission was just a group of people running around town putting plaques on houses," Harris reminisces, "How have the times have changed?"

Those interested in the preservation of the Butters Farm are encouraged to contact the Historic Commission at htavern@townofwilmington.com or CarolynR.Harris@comcast.com.

The sky was the limit for Ripley Miller

when we leave our home that we are unlike anyone else."

The writing of A Long White Scarf was a long, personal journey for Doten. By the time she actually became serious about the project, it took another three years to complete.

"I began this project, because I wanted to know my mother as an adult," Doten says. "She was radical and courageous, but once I had children of my own, I started to ask myself, how could she take such risks?"

Once she had her manuscript together, Doten knew that it would need substantial revision. She knew that she would need professional help, but she didn't know that signing up with Big Table Publishing would put her back in touch with Robin Stratton, a high school friend. Both graduates of Wilmington High School, Class of 78, they hadn't seen each other in more than 25 years.

Stratton, who lives in Newton and is teaching a course in writing at Massasoit Community College, is a writing coach, author of The Revision Process, and owner of Big Table Publishing.

"It was great to reconnect with Julia," said Stratton, "but we didn't spend much time reminiscing about our days at Wilmington High. We wanted to get started on her book right away."

Stratton went through Doten's manuscript and provided editorial comments.

rial comments.

"She had a lot to say," Doten laughs. "I found that when Robin has a lot to say, that means it's good. She offered a lot of constructive criticism and was very encouraging."

"Julia has natural writing skills," Stratton said. "But anyone writing a biography, especially if they're close to the subject, is faced with the challenge of knowing what to include, and what to cut."

That was true in Doten's case.

"I put in everything I could remember about my mother," Doten said. "Robin made me see that while those details are interesting to me, they diluted the focus. She kept saying, 'What doesn't add, takes away.'"

According to Stratton, the first sentence is of crucial importance to any book, not just for the reader, but also for the author.

"Lately, faded memories of my mother and her flying have been coming back to me, sketchy at first and dragged to the surface, then fuller and rising unbidden," A Long White Scarf begins. "Those memories were tucked away when childhood was left behind, and replaced with jobs, car repairs, a husband, a family. But, now, stopping on the side of route 38 where Tew-Mac Airport once bustled with activity, I stare at a row of newly-built condominiums - and with very little effort I can imagine them gone and see again the blacktop runway."

There is no doubt that Doten accomplished her initial goal of getting know her mother as an adult, but she has gone far beyond that. She has introduced the rest of us to the human side of a larger than life pioneer and has documented a story worthy of consideration by any of the major motion picture studios.

ture studios.

"I've met my goal by having it published and loving the final draft," Doten said. "My continued goal is to distribute the book."

The themes and the plotline of the book hold crossover appeal to multiple generations. Wilmington Memorial Library has purchased multiple copies, including several to be included in the Teen Area.

Wilmington residents will have an opportunity to meet author Julia Doten during her upcoming visit to Wilmington Memorial Library on June 23, during which she will talk about her mother, the book, and its process. Her presentation will be given at 1:00 p.m. and again at 7:00 p.m.

A Long White Scarf may be purchased through [www.home.earthlink.net/~bra nchbooks/](http://www.home.earthlink.net/~bra nchbooks/).

playing in front of their Whipple Road home.

The man asked the children if they "wanted to see his cat," but they refused. The man then held up a cat up to the window of the vehicle to show the children and told them that he knew where they could see other cats, but the children began to retreat back toward their house. The man then pulled his van into the driveway and asked the children why they didn't want to see more cats, but then thought better of it and pulled back out as the children began yelling for their father.

The children's father immediately called police and a suspect was stopped approximately a half-mile away.

James Donovan, 50, of Avon Street in Tewksbury, was arrested and charged with enticing a child along with various motor vehicle offenses.

"The real story here," said Sgt. Barry, "is that these kids did exactly what they were supposed to do."

According to Barry, Donovan did have a cat in his vehicle exactly as the children had claimed.

"The kids were phenomenal and gave such a detailed description of the vehicle that I was able to identify it even in the absence of a license plate number," Barry said.

Donovan was not forthcoming initially, claiming not to have been in the area of the children's home at all. The children were brought to the scene of the arrest, though held a reasonable distance back from the suspect, and positively identified Donovan. Once informed that he had been identified, Donovan changed his story a bit and admitted to being in the area for the purpose of picking through trash.

According to Barry, Donovan is no stranger to the Tewksbury Police and has a long history of criminal activity and convictions for various offenses.

"He'd never done anything like this, though," Barry said. "We had no idea that he would ever do anything like this."

Donovan was held overnight and was transported to Lowell District Court for arraignment the following morning. Donovan is currently out on bail.

Citizen Advisory Panel Disbanded

the monthly meetings were extremely contentious with friction existing between some of the participating members and Town employees.

In April, the CAP reported to the Board of Selectmen that, according to majority vote, the CAP had met its original charge and should be dissolved. The Board of Selectmen, however, asked the CAP to meet again to develop a direction for the continued involvement of citizens in the Olin and Maple Meadow Landfill remediation efforts.

When the CAP met in May, however, it rescinded the previous vote to recommend disbanding. It subsequently voted to recommend, "that it be restructured to include a working group that will assist, coordinate with and review the technical advisor(s) to facilitate the procedure necessary regarding comments pertaining to the Maple Meadow Brook Aquifer and including the Olin site and Maple Meadow Brook Landfill pursuant to the recommendations by GeoInsight in the South Wilmington Water Study."

Assistant Town Manager Jeffrey Hull, who has chaired the CAP since its inception, felt that the direction offered was no different than what already existed. He opined that a feeling existed within the residents that an organization such as the CAP was still necessary as a "watchdog" to ensure that the Town continue to do what is necessary to protect the health of the community. According to Hull, the landscape has changed dramatically in the last three years and the Town recognizes that it cannot rely on the Massachusetts Department of Environmental Protection (DEP) to take care of its environmental problems.

"My recommendation, as a dissenting member, would be that the people interested in continuing to comment and review documents convene themselves as a citizens committee, whether that's done through the CCN (Concerned Citizens Network) already in existence or another group" Hull said. "They wouldn't be under the constraints of the Open Meeting Law and they could be more responsive in issuing comments."

Residents in attendance at the Board of Selectmen's meeting expressed opinions for and against the CAP's recommendation. Some residents felt that prior to the existence of the CAP, citizens had no voice in the process. Some felt that Town employees participating in the CAP were being forced to work in a hostile environment.

Selectmen Michael McCoy, Michael Newhouse, and Frank West described the CAP as a tremendous asset to the town, but that it had met its original charge.

Selectmen Suzanne Sullivan clarified a statement made earlier in which someone credited former Selectman Robert Palmer with bringing the idea for creating the CAP forward.

"Mr. Palmer did not bring this issue forward," Sullivan said. "I brought this issue forward. I stood up at a Selectmen's meeting and I pretty much gave an ultimatum that if they didn't hire a consultant to protect the interests of the town, that I was going to put an article on Town Meeting."

According to Sullivan, the Board considered her ultimatum and Palmer then made the motion to form the CAP to hire a consultant.

"It's something that I'm very proud of and I just want to make sure that everybody knows that," Sullivan said. "Mr. Palmer did a great thing by making that motion. I appreciate it, we've thanked him, but I was the one, I was the citizen that brought it forward."

According to Sullivan, the board of Selectmen at the time, and in fact many of the boards and town employees at the time, were not educated on the threats existing in the community.

"One of the things this committee did was it educated a lot of people, citizens, town employees, the public, and yes, GeoInsight," Sullivan said. "We hired (GeoInsight) through a process. We had a scope of work and many things that we wanted GeoInsight to do. We did not finish out scope of work."

Sullivan hoped that her fellow selectmen, out of respect for all of the work done by the residents for more than a decade, would accept the recommendation of the CAP. The CAP has worked hard, according to Sullivan, to air out the differences between the town employees and residents to establish a sorely lacking sense of trust. Taking citizens out of the process would only devalue the important and valuable input offered by the citizens.

"I, Debbie Duggan, Kathy Barry, Martha Stevenson, know more about those sites than virtually anyone in this town," Sullivan said. "Dick Patterson of the Conservation Commission spent a lot of time reviewing these issues. We are asking for a process to allow us to participate. We have not completed our scope of work."

McCoy didn't recall Sullivan threatening the board as she described. According to McCoy, that board would listen to suggestions and would consider them.

"If somebody has a good idea out there and I think we can work with it, I have no problem supporting it," McCoy said.

According to McCoy, the board unanimously supported Sullivan's proposal.

"I don't always proclaim that my ideas are the best ideas," McCoy said. "If someone else out there has a better idea, and I don't want to say its all me, me, me. I'd rather work together as a team to accomplish the goals of the community. That's how you get things done."

According to Chairman Raymond Lepore, no one on the board had any intention of denying anyone's ability to be active in the process.

"It comes down to one word and that word is trust," Lepore said. "It comes down to the trust of local government and the trust of people on the outside."

Newhouse offered a motion that the Board acknowledge that the cap has met its original charge and that each member be sent a letter thanking them for their service and inviting them to participate through an advisory committee of their own organization.

The motion was voted 4 to 1 with Sullivan as the lone dissenter.

Shawsheen Tech Graduation

By MICHAEL LANE

There were proud faces all over Cassidy Field on Thursday night when the Shawsheen Valley Tech held its graduation for the class of 2005. Of the 273 graduates, 82 were from Tewksbury and 58 were from Wilmington.

The ceremony started with the Pledge of Allegiance led by class officers Ashley Rollins and Britney Helmer of Tewksbury. Then Dawna DeMarco of Tewksbury had the honor of singing the National Anthem.

After opening remarks from Superintendent Charles Lyons the graduates were greeted by remarks from State Representative Charles Murphy. He advised the graduates not to worry about being rich.

"Don't get too concerned with making millions. Life has a way of taking care of the details," Murphy added.

Later on with the sun beating down on a hot humid night Kimberly Haley of Tewksbury gave her Valedictory address. Haley, who was selected as Massachusetts Vocational-Technical schools' most outstanding student, expressed her thanks to the teachers at Shawsheen Tech.

"We have the discipline to work hard, and we know the value of our high-skill, high-wage education. We owe that education to the finest teachers we could have asked for," Haley said. "Building a future is not supposed to be easy, but we have built the foundation that proves we do not need to be afraid of the challenge."

This year's Outstanding Vocational-Technical Achievement Awards went to Matthew Lombardi (Tewksbury) for Auto Body, Laura Contardo (Tewksbury) for Automotive, Kimberly Haley (Tewksbury) for Business Information Services, Corey Lawrenson (Wilmington) for Carpentry, Alexander Roussopoulos (Wilmington) for Diesel Mechanics, Peter Capraro (Tewksbury) for Electrical, Andrew Gillis (Tewksbury) for Electronics, Stephanie Frey (Tewksbury) for Health Services, Adam Nichols (Tewksbury) for Machine Technology, Richard O'Shea (Tewksbury) for Masonry and Kristoffer King (Wilmington) for Metal Fabrication and Welding.

Peterson leads St. John's Prep with pitching prowess

By MIKE IPPOLITO
Sports Correspondent

One sign of a truly great player is the ability to step up his or her game in the biggest games of the season. Wilmington native Stephen Peterson, a junior left-handed pitcher at St. John's Prep, became a prime example of this last Thursday afternoon when behind his pitching, his team defeated Haverhill in the Division 1 North semi-finals by a score of 22-4 at Alumni Field in Lowell.

Peterson was dominant in the victory, striking out nine batters, while allowing just two earned runs in seven innings after coming on in relief in the bottom of the third inning. The game had actually started on Wednesday night, but was suspended due to rain after 2 1/2 innings and resumed on Thursday with St. John's holding a 3-2 lead.

That was when Peterson took over and proceeded to mow down one Haverhill batter after another while his team exploded on the offensive side.

"It was a big game at the time because it was my first real playoff game with the varsity," Peterson said. "It was a good experience to be in that stadium like setting in the playoff atmosphere with more people watching. And then to have your team score 22 runs is unbelievable."

St. John's was eliminated two days later by top seed Andover in the North Final, putting an end to a remarkable run by an Eagles team that entered the tournament as the seventh seed and knocked off second seeded Everett and sixth seeded Haverhill on their way to the final.

Although his team did not enter the tournament as one of the highest seeds, Peterson was confident his team could make a post season run.

"I really did. The team we have is unbelievable. The JV team was 20-0 last year and we brought a lot of those kids up this season," Peterson said. "I thought the number seven seed did not show how good we are and that if we just got some clutch hits we could go far."

Clutch hits and of course some great pitching, which Peterson most definitely provided. He had been successful all season with a 2-0 record and a 1.32 ERA, but in the biggest game of the year, he was even better than usual.

"It was probably my best game of the year. I just wanted to go out and do what I had done all season and throw hard and throw strikes," Peterson said. "I know I have a great defense behind me so if they hit it there is nothing to worry about it. I just tried not to let the hype of the game get to me."

One thing that made his job a little easier was his team's offense putting 22 runs up on the board. St. John's seemed to get their bats going at the most important part of the season, scoring 47 runs in the first three rounds of the playoffs, including 14 in the win over powerful Everett. The ability to put that many runs on the board didn't surprise Peterson.

"At the beginning of the season we were hitting well, but during the middle of the season we could not get clutch hits and were losing one and two run games," Peterson said. "But once the playoffs came around it was like night and day. I know that every single one of these guys can hit, from one through nine in the lineup."

Despite losing to Andover in the finals the future looks very bright for Peterson and his St. John's teammates. As he mentioned, the core group of a 20-0 JV team will be leading the way next season, and he is already looking forward to trying to advance even further next season.

"As we were walking to the buses after the Andover game, our coach told us that a reporter had said that we will be ranked number one going into next season," Peterson said. "We only graduate one senior position player and two senior pitchers, so I think we can be a serious contender for the state championship."

While he has complete confidence in his teammates,

Peterson also understands that his teammates will have increased confidence and expectations of him next season as he will be a key senior member of the squad. And that is just fine with him.

"I love that opportunity. I am really looking forward to it," Peterson said. "We have got a great coaching staff, and I will play any role they want me to. I will relieve, start, it doesn't matter. Whatever it takes to help the team."

STREE-IKE!!! Steve Peterson struck out nine Hillies in the 22 - 4 win for St. John's Prep.

Fall Sports preview

This year's juniors; next year's leaders

By LOUIE CIMAGLIA
Sports Correspondent

It's never too early to start thinking about sports.

With Spring sports now over, the time has come to look ahead into the crystal ball in this first of three previews and analyze the sports of fall for Wilmington High School. With football, field hockey, cross country, volleyball and soccer, the fall will be chock full of action. And one can only hope that the Wildcats take after Aleet Alex and come up roses, as long as they don't pull a Mike Tyson. Never mind. Let's get to it.

FOOTBALL:

It's going to be a wild ride on the roller coaster that is the gridiron this fall. The Wildcats were undefeated last year and came up short against Hingham in the team's first trip to post-season play since 1976. Also, for the first time in seven years the Wildcats knocked off Pentucket and established themselves as the Cape Ann League power. As opposed to last year, the Wildcats will not be quite as hurt during graduation day. Only six seniors left as opposed to the plethora of seniors that left which badly depleted both sides of the ball.

All eyes will be on senior quarterback Joe Herra. After three successful years as starting quarterback, what will he do for the last hoorah? All other teams in the Cape Ann League know who he is and they have game plans to stop him. But the rest of the Wildcats are the determining factor to see if championships are won. Senior running backs Zack Mayo and Steve Downs are a fierce one-two punch that can win games. Mayo had a breakout year last year and now with his position in the lineup cemented, he should be able to surpass last year's totals. Downs is a wrecking ball who can block, run, and score touchdowns. He does all the dirty work on the inside as well as anyone.

The passing attack will still be led by senior wideout Sean Murphy. Also having a breakout season last year, Murphy is a force to be reckoned with and his height is a large obstacle for cornerbacks, but a huge gift for Herra. On the line, seniors Matt Marden and Mike Haepers will anchor both sides of the ball. Senior Nick Manent will be the center. Due to injuries last year, the line was partially patchwork for some time which will lead to some pre-season contention for a starting job. Nick Hogan came on late last year and may see action on both sides of the ball. Mike Fields was also out early last year and will also see action on both sides.

Junior Greg Stewart will be the placekicker once again. He did a great job with extra points last year which was a valuable tool. To be able to have extra points a virtual lock each time a touchdown was scored was something many teams weren't able to do.

The loss of Brennan Jones, Brian Giamberardino, Rob Gillis, Lou Insalaco, Mike Thibault and Ryan Quigley will sting a little but if there is one thing this team can do, it is adapt and surely that will be no different this year. Expect another post-season appearance this year and perhaps beyond. You heard it here first. You also heard here that the Red Sox would win the World Series and gas prices would sky rocket. Too bad you didn't believe. When the 2010 Olympics are hosted in Wilmington, you heard that here first too.

FIELD HOCKEY:

A fast-moving interest is being associated with field hockey. And a fast-moving success train is about to pull into Wilmington High School. The departure of Celine DeMaggio, Julie Martell and Emily Olson will be a tough pill to swallow, both of them being such great producers for their years at WHS. However, head coach Carol Mutchler and the rest of the Wildcats are looking for their CAL title. This year's team will be led by a flurry of underclassmen. It looks as if there will be no one superstar but a nice mesh of young and old coming together to win games. The squad will be well-conditioned and able to contend for games. A large number of oncoming freshmen last year have matured and have mastered the mechanics of the game. 17 freshmen came on last year, two of whom, Krystal Robarge and Nina Burke, played for JV. As for the older scene, Amanda Nichols, Devin Miller, Daniele Robarge, Deidre Carroll and Cassie Doherty will be the elder stateswomen on the team, and are going to be leaders on and off the field.

Expect a healthy amount of contention from this team and a strong push for a Cape Ann League title. With a strong core of youth and chemistry, this program can only get better. At least 32 of the players on the team this year will be in high school for at least two more years, which bodes well for field hockey fans. Quite simply, there is plenty of time to learn and grow as a whole and enough room for error where everything can be built upon for the following year. A blueprint can be laid out and the Lady Cats will be a playoff team when the time comes. Can't wait for the season to really get underway. Also, can't wait for Star Wars to be out of theatres and never in them again. Let the headache be with you.

CROSS COUNTRY:

With the graduation of Chris Murray, all of the boys track teams will be taking a hit. Lucky for the Wildcats, Tom Miele is there to pick up the slack. Miele was a captain last year and a top performer for the Wildcats. This will be a crucial year for the Wildcats, as the six departing seniors will be replaced by five oncoming seniors. Among the departed are Murray, Tom Blaisdell, Ryan Curtis, Dan Ellsworth, Mike St. Aubin and Dan Jameson. Among the class of 2006 are Miele, Sean MacPherson, Kevin Robillard, Evan Walsh and Sam Oglesby. The brother duo of Shane and Brendan Foley, who will be a junior and sophomore next year, respectively, are leaders of example on and off the field. Also, sophomores Matt Bibeau and Andrew Marra should be big contributors.

As for the girls, the roster is a little on the small side. Last year there was only four members on the team, and two of them graduated. Liz Pettigrew and Jen Lorange both departed on graduation day, leaving soon to be junior Jess Harrington and senior Kristina Kovalenko to carry the load. Whether or not there will be new recruits remains to be seen. Hopefully things will start

Lifetime opportunity

Fenway first for local boy

By LOUIE CIMAGLIA

Some people have all the luck. Some people have money. Some people have fame. And some people get to throw out the first pitch at Fenway Park.

Now, what are the odds of that. They're about 300-1.

That's right. Just ask Nicholas Gendron. He was one out of 300 lucky kids to get a chance to throw out the first pitch this upcoming Saturday at Friendly Fenway.

Nicholas won a raffle at the Granite City Kids Club, in which 300 names were put in a hat and one was pulled out.

Nicholas is a 9-year-old who goes to Shawheen Elementary School in Wilmington. He is very excited for his 15 minutes of fame, and is a big Red Sox fan. But he can't decide who is favorite is. He can cheer for whoever he wants to, because everybody wants to be Nicholas' friend right about now.

Pentucket started the game with three unanswered goals, it looked like the Wildcats were in for a long game. The Wildcats regrouped and started their own scoring run. Wilmington only allowed one goal in the rest of the first half.

The Wildcats scored ten goals, the most of the season, with nine different goal scorers . ## Redmen Track team places well in New England Championship Track &amp; Field meet

By MIKE IPPOLITO
Sports Correspondent

The New England Championship Track & Field meet was held at Thornton Academy in Saco, Maine last Saturday afternoon with the best athletes from all over New England competing for glory on a hot, steamy day.

With all of the large schools and tremendous athletes present at the meet, Tewksbury High still managed to make their presence felt with several fine performances on both the boys and girls side.

For the girls, senior Lauren Barbour led the way with a second place finish in the 300-meter hurdles in a time of 44.56, while they also got an outstanding effort from the 4x400 relay team of Barbour, Stacey Ossinger, Colleen Fitzpatrick and Nikki Cunha who finished in fifth place with a time of 4:02.3

For the boys, senior Kevin Ianetta finished an impressive fifth place in the 300-meter hurdles in a time of 39.51, while Chris Dietsch finished 11th in the 100-meter high hurdles in 15.43 and Peter Fortunato took 13th in the 1600 meters with a time of 4:26.98.

The girls relay team just barely missed tying their own school record of 4:02.7, a remarkable feat given the conditions on Saturday afternoon. Coach Bill Pischione raved about his team coming up so big against such tough competition.

"It's more than incredible. I never expected it to happen," Pischione said. "It was at the end of the day and they had been in the heat all day. I don't know where their strength came from."

Cunha ran the first leg of the race before handing off to Barbour who kept the Lady Redmen in contention before Fitzpatrick passed on to Ossinger for the anchor leg. Pischione loved the effort he got from his entire team, particularly the senior Ossinger in the anchor leg.

"Stacey ran a 60.4 in the final leg. It was just a fantastic finish," Pischione said. "She came down the straightaway and she had this look of determination on her face. She did a great job."

As great as the team's performance was on this day, it was not just this one meet that Pischione was most impressed with. It was the effort they gave throughout the season that will stick with him long after the season is over.

"They showed great character today, a real competitive spirit," Pischione said. "But I'll tell you what, that is the spirit the kids have had all year long from the seniors to the younger kids. They are the best kids in the school. They are just super kids."

The combination of character and talent led to a truly remarkable day against some quality competition.

"They don't keep team scores, but between Lauren and the relay team we had 10 points, which is remarkable for a small school like us," Pischione said. "They were going against great athletes and great track schools from Connecticut."

The boys continued what has been another remarkable season with their performance last Saturday, and Dietsch's 11th place finish in the hurdles was one of many highlights.

"Chris has had a remarkable year for us," boys coach Steve Levine said. "He was the MVC champion in this event and he was also part of our decathlon team."

Fortunato, who will take his talents to UMass next year also had a great day for the Redmen.

"Peter had a phenomenal year," Levine said. "He improved every time he stepped on the track. He and Kevin (Ianetta) will add a great deal to the UMass program and I look forward to seeing them there together."

Levine, much like Pischione, was thoroughly pleased with his team's effort against the level of competition at this meet, as well as their achievements throughout the season.

"We are the smallest school in MVC and we won it for the sixth year in a row," Levine said. "In that time we have won four state titles and this year we finished fourth. We are always in the hunt."

Both coaches also went to great lengths to praise not only their entire teams, even the ones not represented at the New England Meet, but also the assistant coaches who have helped in the team's success this season.

Peter Malloy, John Byrnes, Jack O'Brien, Peter Saver, and Tewksbury High alums Billy Meuse and Jonathon Shiner all made significant contributions to the team this season.

"These are young guys who have so much enthusiasm for these kids. They gave so much of their time, and the kids loved learning from them," Levine said.

Pischione added, "If there is a problem, I can go look to these guys for answers. They are young, energetic and enthusiastic and both the boys and girls love them."

Kevin Ianetta takes fifth in New England

By MIKE IPPOLITO
Sports Correspondent

You know you are a pretty special athlete when you don't run one of your better races, yet somehow manage to finish in fifth place of all of New England. That was the story for Tewksbury High star Kevin Ianetta last Saturday afternoon at the New England Championship Track & Field Meet at Thornton Academy in Saco, Maine.

Ianetta took fifth place in the 300-meter hurdles at the meet in a time of 39.51, almost a full second off his season best time of 38.60.

"Kevin kind of stutter stepped at the start of the race, and it wasn't until after the third hurdle that he really got going," Tewksbury coach Steve Levine said. "He was as good as the first place finisher."

Ianetta, a senior who rapped up his remarkable career for the Redmen in the meet, acknowledged the slow start, but he certainly managed to recover very well.

"I wasn't exactly happy with the time, but you have to be happy being 5th in New England,"

Ianetta said. "I am usually sputtering toward the end of the race, but in this one once I saw the competition I was able to make up for my slow start and was still going strong at the end."

Ianetta was going strong despite a fellow runner falling in front of him and impeding his path right near the finish line. Despite the final obstacle, the MVC Athlete of the Year for Division 2 was not making any excuses.

"He was two lanes to my left and he fell into my lane, so it was like an extra hurdle," Ianetta said. "But I don't think it affected my time because it was right before the finish line."

Levine wouldn't make any excuses for his star either, but he also knows that things could have been different if not for the slow start.

"He was right in the race, so absolutely if he had gotten off to a better shot he would have had a chance to win," Levine said. "He regained his composure after the third hurdle and he was really flying as he came across the finish line."

Ianetta was focused completely on the race as it was going on, but after it was over he had some time to reflect on what has been a tremendous career with the Redmen. He will move on to UMass next season, but you can be sure he will never forget his time with the Redmen.

"I thought about how it was the last time I will run for coach Levine and knowing it was my last race for Tewksbury High was kind of emotional," Ianetta said. "I was also thinking of the entire coaching staff and how unbelievable they have all been to work with."

According to Levine, Ianetta has been pretty unbelievable for his teammates to work with. Obviously he has made his presence felt with his excellent results on the track, but it has been more than just his on track performance that has made this season so special.

"This year he became a team leader. The kids respected him and all looked up to him," Levine said. "He would always take the time to work with the younger kids."

When Ianetta arrives at UMass in the fall, the Minutemen will be getting an athlete who is sure to make a mark on the track and possibly even on the football field. He will be talking to the football coaches in the coming weeks to determine if joining the football team is a viable option.

But he will definitely be a member of the track team and he will do so with current Tewksbury High teammate Peter Fortunato who will also be heading to UMass. Ianetta is excited for the opportunity to step up to the next level of competition, and thrilled to take that step with his friend.

"We know we are going to have to bring our games up and our intensity level will have to go up," Ianetta said. "We have been best friends all through high school. I think we are ready for the competition."

Levine has no doubt that Ianetta will succeed at whatever he does at the college level.

"He will be absolutely fantastic," Levine said. "He would also be a great receiver there as well. He is just a great all around athlete."

Tewksbury Memorial High senior Lauren Barbour was a leader in Saco, ME as the Red squads place well in New England championships

Wilmington girls U-9 soccer action

On Saturday the Wilmington girls U9-2 squad took on the Wilmington GU9-1 team in steamy conditions and came away with a 1-0 victory. The Wildcats came out flying and immediately took control of the game. Juliet Mcfadden and Caitlin Parrott had several rushes to the goal early. The Wilmington girls kept the pressure on the Wilmington defense but, Marina Otis and Kerry Ryan stood tall and defended the goal. The score was kept close by Katherine McKenna who made some spectacular plays at keeper. The combination of Chloe Castellano and Christina D'Ambrosio almost put the girls ahead at the close of the second half as Christina drove down the right wing and put the ball out in front. Chloe blasted it by the goal wide of the far corner. The first half ended at nil-nil. Kathryn Mcfadden and Casey Macdonald opened the second half with some creative offense that nearly led to the girls taking the lead. Goal keeper Heather Benson thwarted numerous scoring chances as the GU9-2 team held tough. Finally, Nicole Potcner made a great throw-in to Adrianna Kippenberger and Adrianna drilled it to the back of the net for the eventual game winner. The girls played solid defense the rest of the way with Wilmington applying the pressure. Several near misses kept the crowd on it's feet to the very end.

Girls Travel Soccer played in Billerica tourney

WILMINGTON - As the season comes to a close, the GU11A travel soccer team has been on a roll.

The girls participated in the Billerica Tournament over Memorial Day weekend and had an impressive 3-0-1 record. They faced teams from Swampscott, Andover, Burlington and Billerica, before advancing to the finals on Monday against the Wakefield 1 team. The Wildcats ended up placing 2nd in the tournament forth GU12 division.

The next Friday night the girls had a big 2-0 win against a strong Billerica squad at home. And the next morning the Wildcats came away with another solid 2-0 win against North Reading. The final game of the season was played away in Billerica, where the teams ended in a scoreless tie.

The team finished tying for second place in their division, with a record of 5-3-2. During the season we were treated to great goal tending by mid-season acquisition, Sarah Luz. The defense was the backbone with Meaghan Stinson, Robin Hollenbeck, Geena DiNuccio and Melanie Folk. Our offense was well rounded, with virtually every player contributing a goal or an assist during the season. The offense consisted of Emily Crannell, Jennifer Stewart, Alexa Brown, Taylor Cushing, Caitlin McDonough, Valerie Belding, Cristina Wilson, Lisa Hitchins, Lexi Arsenault, Rachel Grabar, Paige Bennett, Michela Stone and Casey Browne. We would also like to acknowledge the time and effort put forth by their coaches, Bob Folk, John Crannell and Monica Folk.

Lady Wildcats improve their record to 7 wins, 2 ties and 0 losses

The Wilmington lady Wildcats U-12B team hosted Hanscom this past Saturday June 11th. The girls started out strong as the Wilmington forwards Lauren Azevedo, Kerriane Marino, Kelly McGowan, Lauren Smith and Ashley Walsh all put repeated shots on the Hanscom net. Wildcat keeper Emily Schuh handled the opposing team with ease as the Wildcat midfielders Katie Bray, Jessica Griffin, Ryanne Newhouse and Mikayla Visconti stopped the Hanscom forwards in their zone and when the half came Hanscom had 3 shots on the Wilmington net, nice job ladies! In the second half Hanscom responded by coming on strong, the tried and tested defense of sweeper Cara Kusa, stopper Kerry Murphy and fullbacks Victoria Beck, Kelly Diccico and Brett Duffy once again showed why they are one of the best defenses in the league. The Wildcats struck first as midfielder Katie Blanch put a pass right on target and Midfielder Katie Bray finished it off blasting a shot into the Hanscom net giving Wilmington a 1-0 lead. Keeper Courtney Cavanaugh once again was outstanding in net, stopping everything sent her way. The heat and humidity of the day began to take its toll on both teams as the play began to slow down, but Forward Michaela D'Ambrosio decided she had enough and on a break-away she ran right through the Hanscom defense and rocketed a shot past the hanscom keeper with 10 seconds left in the game giving the Lady Wildcats a 2-0 win, improving their record to 7 wins, 2 ties and 0 losses with their final season game next week the Wilmington ladies are paving the way to the Commissioners cup in 2 weeks, way to goWildcats!

Lady Wildcat U-10 battle to 0-0 decision

The Wilmington Lady Wildcats Under 10-3 team headed to Westford this past Saturday morning and the blistering heat of the day only intensified the fire out on the field. This young Wildcats team experienced a game like no other this season with some very physical play and aggressive competition. The Ladycats played tough and controlled the ball for most of the game. Forwards Taylor Perella, Rachel McLaren, Rachael Mara and Caroline Robarge hustled into the Westford zone and tried to mount their own attack with some great passing and solid shots on net. Centermid Christa Brent fought hard and won the ball time and time again to feed the forward line. Wilmington defenders Kaitlyn Cowden and Carli Brent did a superb job in shutting down speed on the other side and kept the ball away from the net the entire first half, which ended 0-0.

The Wilmington Wildcats never let up the entire second half and forwards Kaitlyn Curley and Cassandra Grasso along with centermid

Alexandra Bischoff applied pressure to the Westford keeper generating many scoring opportunities. Erin Hurley did a fantastic job in net and was goalkeeper for the entire game. Once again, the Wilmington Wildcats came off the field with a shutout and the game ended 0-0. Wilmington's defense continues to play exceptionally well and the Wildcats record is now 6-1-2. The Wilmington Wildcats will be playing Tewksbury this Saturday at home.

Locals on Lightning capture New England AAU championship

Anthony Morlani of Wilmington at bat during the AAU Championship game.

By JAMIE POTE
Sports Editor

Lightning Baseball of New England's U14 baseball team captured the New England AAU championship this past weekend. The tournament started with over two dozen teams. The Championship Round was played at Tufts University in Medford. Local players Anthony Morlani of Wilmington and Ron Wallace of Tewksbury contributed mightily to the team's success.

As they have done all year, Morlani and Wallace ignited the Lightning over the weekend with their bats, gloves and arms. Anthony played flawlessly in the outfield, as he made numerous difficult plays look easy. At the plate, Morlani had key hits all weekend. Ron got the Championship Round off to a solid start by throwing a one-hitter as the Lightning pounded the Dugout Dawgs from Cape Cod 11-0. Wallace made all the plays from his outfield position and seemed to be on base all the time. In the semifinal victory over the Ballplayers from Worcester, Anthony contributed three timely hits while Ron came up with a booming 2 RBI triple. In the final game Morlani and Wallace set the pace as they both contributed with two hits as the Lightning beat the East Coast Breakers 5-0.

Last year, these players as part of Lightning Baseball of New England won the U13 AAU National Championships in Myrtle Beach, SC. At the end of July they will defend their title in Sarasota, FL at the U14 National Championship.

Fall Sports preview

looking up for the girls cross country team and more girls decide to join.

This is a grueling sport. Easy as that. These kids deserve a real tip of the cap. They practice every day and they run. To the kids who can balance this sport and their academics, they deserve great credit.

VOLLEYBALL:

A tough playoff loss last year is not the note the Lady Wildcats wanted to bring into this year. However, the lineup does look strong for Mark Staffier's Lady Cats. The only two seniors were Krystle Chambers and Nicole Crowley. Kelley Lemke and Megan Godding will lead the charge this year for the 'Cats. They bring leadership and experience to a team that actually has depth in both. Julian Guzinski, Stephanie Steeves, Amanda Miles, Katie Celi and Ashley Ricardo are all soon-to-be seniors, along with Godding and Lemke. Ashley Vitale looks to build upon her increasingly-popular name in Cape Ann, with a follow up to last year's fantastic performance on the hardwood. The team undoubtedly will contend for a playoff spot and perhaps will make it further than they did last year, a semifinal heartbreaker. A well-balanced group of girls will be supported by last year's JV team, which consisted of five freshmen and five sophomores. Also, there was an additional three juniors who will add to the experience.

This sport can sometimes get overlooked because of the action on the gridiron, but it sure is fun to watch. A point is scored on every service, which cuts down on any lack of action. A game of strategy and finesse, it's amazing to think of the practice that goes into each season. Come watch a few games and you'll understand. There is no rest. There is no stoppage. But there is no shortage of fun and excitement. Whether you have never seen a game before is irrelevant, this sport deserves more attention.

SOCCER:

It's been a tough couple of years for the Wildcats' soccer teams.

And graduation day did not help this cause this year. The Boys will be losing Anthony Azevedo, Billy Papageorgiou, Mike Vassalo, Brian Sullivan and Brian Little. But the future is bright.

Three freshmen, Vinny Papageorgiou, Mike Conell and Matt Figueiredo all were contributors on varsity last year. When they are seniors, look out. Tim Collins, P.J. Russo, Rick Fudge, and Chris Crosby will be a few of the seniors playing next year. In a very talented CAL, the Wildcats have been unable to find their niche. With a strong crop of underclassmen and some good coaching, give them some time.

The Lady Cats benefit from an absolutely huge roster. Despite 12 seniors leaving, that's not even a third of the roster. Debbie Lyons and Lani Cabral-Pini will be missed, among the rest of the dozen, but fear not: A completely stacked roster remains. The likes of Alyssa Bibeau, Jackie Mello, Nadia Prinzivalli, Danielle Bamberg, Sam Canning and more than two dozen soon to be sophomores, plus almost thirty more players. That's a lot o' lineup. This depth will allow the coaching staff a wide selection of talent and varying skills to craft the perfect team. You can't ignore the numbers. Especially when they're all in uniform. That's even harder to ignore.

GOLF:

A depleted golf team will have it's work cut out in 2005, with the graduation of Kevin Velardo, Brendan Strem, Mike Hackett, Brian Frongillo, Joe DiMare and Scott Konieczka, only six players remain from last year's roster. The team will be led by Zach Ungvarsky and Jeff Youngclaus, who will be seniors, along with Alex Montalto and Ryan Trulli. Also returning are Brendan Sheehan and Jason Evans. The loss of Velardo will be difficult to overcome, but the team will manage and should enjoy another winning season.

This should be an interesting fall. Wilmington High School will be jumping with anticipation of successes past and the incoming crop of freshmen. Only time will tell. Now... For winter sports.

Lynnfield's home grown Charlie Moore The Mad Fisherman

By PAUL FEELY

Anyone who knew Charlie Moore during his days at Lynnfield High School probably never thought he would find himself one day on the deck of a boat, fishing with 'Batman'.

Then again, maybe they wouldn't be surprised at all.

Moore, host of the Charlie Moore Outdoors show on New England Sports Network, will be all over local television screens starting later this month, when the sixth season begins to air.

The new season of 'Beat Charlie Moore' will also begin airing on ESPN 2 in July. In this series, viewers are asked if they think they have what it takes to take on the "Mad Fisherman", Charlie Moore - are they the "baddest" angler in your area? People can apply to challenge Charlie "mano y mano" to anything involving a rod and reel. If Charlie accepts the challenge, ESPN2 will set up the time and the place, and Charlie will be there.

Moore has also branched out locally to host Subaru of New England's Roughing It, NESN's new adventure reality series. According to a promotional release, it's good sports in the great outdoors - with competition and campfire comedy you won't want to miss. Tune in to find out what happens when local comedians and former athletes join Charlie Moore on an overnight camping trip.

Past episodes have been known to feature such local sports legends as Steve Grogan, Lyndon Byers, Bill Lee and Chris Nilan, along with well-known comedians from the New England area like Mike McDonald, Frank Santorelli and Kenny Rogerson.

Hosted by Moore, this adventure/reality series features these athletes and comedians white water rafting, hang gliding, dog sledding, as well as the type of campfire comedy you would expect to hear when Moore gets together with some of his childhood heroes.

Currently involved with three television shows on two different networks, it's hard to believe that Moore got his start only after repeatedly begging and pleading with NESN executives for some airtime.

"This (his current television schedule) is definitely how I wanted things to work out when I started," said Moore, who is also the subject of his own website, www.charliemoore.com, where fans of his brand of humor and fishing prowess can get updates about when and where their favorite "Mad Fisherman" will be appearing next. "I don't think we've reached our peak yet either. I think we're just going to keep getting bigger."

The Mad Fisherman segment first appeared on NESN in May of 1996, as small segments on the 'Front Row' program.

"I was watching some of the programs about fishing that were on at the time, and I thought they were missing something - a sense of humor," said Moore. "I mean, no one here is solving world issues or anything. It's just fishing, and I thought I could bring something to it that other shows didn't have. I just kept calling and hounding everyone at NESN until basically I think they were sick of hearing from me, and we started to get these tiny little segments."

As is usually the case with something Moore is involved in, even the first show they taped has a funny story attached to it.

"On the very first show I filmed, I launched the boat into the lake without a plug in it," said Moore. "We started filming the bit, and next thing we know the boat started sinking!"

One would expect someone who proudly states that if they could spend a day with anyone at all, it would be the Three Stooges, to have a pretty strong sense of humor, but Moore backs up the craziness with strong fishing credentials as well.

Moore's childhood hero, Adam West is one of the many celebs seen on the NESN show. The new season of 'Beat Charlie Moore' will also begin airing on ESPN 2 in July.

He finished 13th in 1999 at the Foxwoods Lake Candlewood Fishing Tournament and 10th in 2000. At the 2000 ABA Smallmouth Tournament on Lake Winnepesaukee he finished third, after placing seventh in the same tourney in 1999.

He has fished on the B.A.S.S. National Trail since 1998 and has appeared in the Everstart Tournament Series, sponsored by WalMart, in Florida, South Carolina and Alabama.

"We're not a joke," said Moore. "I mean, we like to have fun, and we're not solving any world issues or anything, but that is real fishing your watch-ing. We don't teach much about fishing during the course of a show, so I don't know if you'll learn much, but it's not just a game or a joke we're playing out there."

Moore is a Lynnfield native, and is very proud of his days roaming the halls at Lynnfield High prior to his graduation in 1988. If you ask him, he still doesn't understand how he qualified for a diploma.

"I think if you went and talked to anyone, went back and talked to any of the teachers or anyone who knew me, they would tell you that I used to walk around there like I owned the place," said Moore. "I always thought I was something special, and I wasn't afraid to let anyone know it either. I was always talking about how I was going to be big some day. But I honestly don't know how I ever graduated. I mean, I didn't do much of anything while I was there."

Over the years, Moore has had the opportunity to film episodes with some of his childhood Boston sports heroes, as well as current entertainment celebrities such as reality television couple Boston Rob and Amber from 'Survivor'. But his biggest thrill came while dropping fishing lines with one of his

"MR. AND MRS. SMITH" A MINDLESS ACTION MOVIE

MOVIE:
"MR. AND MRS. SMITH"
GRADE: **

"Mr. and Mrs. Smith" isn't just a romance, and it isn't just a comedy. It is, at its core, a big, mindless action movie - a high-tech "The War of the Roses." So checking your brain at the multiplex door is a good idea, because it will prevent you from being distracted by just how flawed the film's premise is.

It will keep you from thinking thoughts like, if John (Brad Pitt) and Jane Smith (Angelina Jolie) are truly super-duper secret assassins who are using each other as a cover to protect their identities, wouldn't each of them have thoroughly investigated the other before they got married and realized who their intended was? Or have they been blinded by the tequila, moonlight and explosions that overwhelmed them on the night they first hooked up in Bogota?

Don't let reality spoil the fun - you can't let these thoughts creep into your head. You just gotta go with it, and everyone involved makes that easy to do - at least until the very end, when the movie culminates in a deafening, overlong (though elaborately choreographed) shoot-out inside ahome decorating store. By then, the movie has worn out its welcome mat.

But director Doug Liman continues to show a knack for crisp pacing, even as his movies have gotten larger. "Mr. and Mrs. Smith" combines the infectious energy of his smaller, earlier films ("Swingers," "Go") with the complexity and scope of "The Bourne Identity," his first foray into action flicks three years ago.

Here, John and Jane live an antiseptic life with a beautiful home, two cars and little interaction (The film begins and ends with the couple sitting side-by-side in cushy chairs, looking straight into the camera and answering questions during a therapy session).

Anyway, their relationship provides a twist on the conventions of suburbia. She wears a frumpy apron to cook dinner, which is ready every night at 7; he comes home, pulls on a cardigan sweater and fixes himself a drink. They engage in distracted discourse over the new curtains she bought.

Sometimes, though, they sneak out at night under the guise of "work." Jane puts on a dominatrix get-up and heads into Manhattan to snap her latest victim's neck. John weasels his way into a back-room poker game and fires off a few effortless rounds to fulfill his mission.

It's only when both are assigned the same target (Adam Brody from "The O.C.," typically smart-mouthed as an up-and-coming spy himself) do they each realize whom they've been lying next to in bed every night. That epiphany sets up the film's subtlest, most suspenseful scene - a dinner that's more verbal ballet than quiet meal at home - and forces each Smith to try and bump off the other.

SHORTTAKES

"CINDERELLA MAN"
GRADE: ***

Director Ron Howard is a sentimental man, a character trait he has brought to the forefront with "Cinderella Man," though he lets the film get a bit gooey toward the end. The film features Russell Crowe as boxer James J. Braddock, so as expected it's flawlessly crafted, superbly acted and intelligently written.

We know how the story ends, a problem Howard showed he had no problem overcoming in his film "Apollo 13." Braddock was a real-life prizefighter who came from behind to serve as a symbol of hope to folks who were down on their luck during the Depression. That includes his own family, for whom he's able to provide a comfortable home in suburban New Jersey at the film's start.

it's DIFFERENT By How'

There are seven differences in the second picture. Can you spot them?
ANSWERS: DRESS, SHIRT, CHAIR, LAMP, PICTURE, SHOE, PILLOW.

But as Howard shows with a seamless shift in time and tenor, Braddock is forced to move them into a run-down basement apartment when his fights and fortunes run out four years later. He now must compete for daily work on the docks while wife Mae (Renee Zellweger in full feisty mode) takes in sewing and waters the milk for their three kids.

Then Braddock's former manager, Joe Gould (Paul Giamatti), comes calling with a proposal. A boxer had to drop out of a fight at the last minute, and Gould has finagled a way for Braddock (even though he's lost his license) to get back in the ring against an up-and-coming star.

There is, of course, the obligatory training montage leading up to the bout itself. Having been away for some long, Braddock is barely expected to last a couple of rounds. He ends up winning, which sets up a heavyweight championship fight against the monstrous Max Baer (a convincingly slimy Craig Bierko) who has literally

Soley new trustee of Devlin Scholarship

The Dr. Thomas P. and Edwina H. Devlin Medical Scholarship Fund trustees are pleased to announce the election of Maureen M. Soley as the newest trustee.

A native of Stoneham, Soley earned degrees in education from the University of Massachusetts at Amherst and Lowell and Boston State College.

Soley was an elementary school teacher for more than twenty years. She also served as the principal of the Robin Hood Elementary School for a decade and she was recently elected to serve on the Stoneham School Committee.

The trustees also wish to remind local nursing and medical students that scholarship applications for the 2005-2006 academic year are still available.

The deadline for submission of all materials and applications has been slated for Wednesday, June 1.

Qualified candidates must be accepted to an accredited medical or nursing school. The scholarship fund trustees will not accept applications from students in pre-med or other health-related fields.

Applicants must be a resident of Melrose, Reading, Wilmington, North Reading, Stoneham, Wakefield, Winchester or Woburn.

For more information on the Devlin Medical Scholarship, visit the website by logging onto www.devlinmedicalscholarship.org.

are allusions to everything from "American Beauty" and "Chariots of Fire" to "Planet of the Apes" and "The Twilight Zone." One joke even combines riffs on "Cast Away" and "Caddyshack" in the same breath.

Some of the gags in the film from director-writers Eric Darnell ("Antz") and Tom McGrath ("The Ren & Stimpy Show") are admittedly laugh-out-loud funny. Others fall flat. All of them, of course, are intended for the adults in the audience and will sail right over the tiny heads of the kids, who will be captivated by the colorful, hyperactive characters no matter what.

MOVIE:
"STAR WARS EPISODE III: REVENGE OF THE SITH"
GRADE: *****

The Force is strong with "Episode III: Revenge of the Sith," the sixth and final piece in George Lucas' galactic saga, which represents a return to the ideas and the spirit that made his original "Star Wars" a hit 28 years ago.

The circle is now complete, and much of the film's joy comes from watching these familiar names and events fall into place.

It is enormously satisfying to see young Anakin Skywalker (Hayden Christensen) teeter along the edge that separates good and evil, and to see what finally pushes the would-be Chosen One over to the dark side of the Force.

OFF TO A FRESH START (AGAIN)

Trading places in North Reading

"The Board of Selectmen held one of their briefest meetings ever - this is no exaggeration - when they reorganized and elected new officers for the coming year," notes the "North Reading Transcript."

"In a session that literally lasted about two minutes, Marci Bailey and Bob Mauceri traded places for the coming year."

"Mauceri was elected Chairman of the board for 2005-2006 and Bailey will be vice-chairman. This is a reversal of the roles both members filled for the past 12 months. Joe Veno was elected clerk of the board."

"All votes were unanimous."

"The board voted unanimously to set the late fee at nine percent per annum for delinquent trash removal bills."

"As readers already know, all residential property owners participating in the solid waste collection program pay a user fee of $180 per year, billed quarterly in four equal installments. At the time the user fee was adopted the board also voted for a late fee of $2.50 per quarter or $10 per year."

"So far, so good, but the devil is in the details. And Monday night Treasurer Liz Craveiro brought one up: the town's billing software can calculate the late fee on an annual percentage basis but can't carry it as a flat number."

"She recommended the board change its policy to set the late fee at nine percent per annum. This will benefit consumers because if they're one day late with their payment they won't get hit for the full $2.50 late fee, she said...."

Burlington

"Calling his political career 'resurrected' with his triumph over John Lamb for the moderator position, Phillip Gallagher said he promises some changes as he returns to the post he held from 1981-1984," notes the Burlington edition of the "Daily Times Chronicle."

"Gallagher captured all six precincts as he tallied a total of 1,475 votes, to 943 for Lamb."

"It was Lamb's second straight unsuccessful run for moderator; in 2004, he was defeated by Robert Marrano."

"This year, after seven straight terms, Marrano chose not to run."

"Gallagher returns to the moderator position after a 21-year hiatus; since then, he has served on the Board of Selectmen (1984-1991) and on the Recreation Commission."

"I am very pleased to be following Bob Marrano. I just hope that I will be able to do as good a job as Bob," said Gallagher, interviewed on Burlington Cable Access Television's live election night coverage (in its 15th year).

"I do have some ideas," Gallagher said, when asked if he would take any kind of different approach to the job as compared to his first stint."

"Gallagher said there would be a 'Town Meeting orientation' and that he would like to 'make some changes on the Ways and Means Committee,' including getting those meetings televised."

"He said he did not expect the changes on Ways and Means to be 'dramatic,' but he would add people with more expertise...."

On the same page in Stoneham

"Stoneham's first bookstore has striven to meet the educational and literary needs of the community," notes the "Stoneham Independent."

"Offering a diverse selection of reading materials was challenging in the small 600-foot storefront where the adventure began. The incredible welcome received in the first two years has been so encouraging, growth was necessary sooner than expected."

"Now, with more than twice the original location's sales floor, the Book Oasis has the ability to expand high demand genres such as history, self-help and wellness, New England related topics including Fells Reservation maps, and other non-fiction subjects. Donations and trade-ins of good condition books are always welcomed, especially non-fiction. The new location at 311 Main Street in Stoneham offers a bright, inviting atmosphere that owners Dan and Debbie Sullivan are excited to share. The change is dramatic. Not only is the store more inviting but there is also room to grow. The desire to stay in Stoneham combined with the unexpected availability of a storefront that allowed immediate growth and had space in reserve means the bookstore has a home for years to come.

"With the recent decline in the number of local used bookstores, The Book Oasis hopes to be a haven for bibliophiles both locally and outside Stoneham. The hope is to attract readers from many of the communities around Stoneham and help to boost the local economy. Already several customers from New Hampshire have become regulars, making the trek to Stoneham at least once a month. Future plans include a small café offering tea, coffee and snacks as well as a place for chess/checkers and a reading room for book clubs and a children's reading hour...."

"Visit the Book Oasis in its home at 311 Main St., Stoneham. Business hours are Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, and Saturday 10 am to 6 pm, Thursday and Friday 10 am to 7 pm, and Sunday 12 pm to 5 pm through March. Phone (781) 438-0077."

A STUDY IN SCHOLARSHIP

Scholars in Wilmington

"Lani Cabral-Pini and Sarah Jackson win $10,000 total," notes the "Wilmington Town Crier."

"The following essays were written by this year's McKeown Scholars Program winners in Wilmington. As part of the competition, sponsored by Cummings Foundation, students were required to write a timed essay on the following topics in March. Essays were then number coded and anonymously evaluated by Wilmington High English department volunteers. Essays served as the 'first cut' criteria to identify finalists in the nine-year-old competition.

"Winners were determined from the group of finalists, based upon overall essay quality, application packets, community service record, overall outstanding reputation, a personal interview, and other stated criteria. School officials reported that out of a total 43 eligible students, 24 students participated in the program this year at Wilmington High. The program was also available to all Wilmington residents who are high school seniors graduating in the top 20 percent of their respective secondary schools.

"The McKeown Scholars Program was established in 1997 in memory of James L.

McKeown. Late president of Cummings Properties, Mr. McKeown was well-known throughout the Boston area for his mild manner, strong reputation for fairness and integrity, and far-reaching efforts to expand opportunities for local youth.

"Mr. McKeown died unexpectedly of heart failure in 1996 at the age of 41, while running near his home in Winchester, where he lived with his wife Denise and two young daughters, Molly and Kelly. Following his death, the city of Beverly dedicated the James L. McKeown Elementary School in his memory, and the city of Woburn honored him with the naming of the James L. McKeown Memorial Interchange over Route I-93.

"According to Cummings Foundation, beginning in 2006, winners will also be informed of additional substantial scholarship opportunities exclusively available to past and present McKeown Scholars during their college careers."

Fair exchange in Reading

"A pair of innovative Reading Memorial High School (RMHS) teachers have received approval from the School Committee to offer students educational trips abroad at the end of the 2005-2006 school year," notes the Reading edition of the

"Daily Times Chronicle."

"Biology teacher Martha Moore is putting together an ecological study trip to Peru and Social Studies teacher Gary D'Entremont is doing the same with a trip to London, England for World War II studies.

"In a written statement, Moore advised the Committee, 'In the summer of 1999 I traveled to the Peruvian Amazon with Environmental Expeditions. It has been my dream ever since to return with a group of students from RMHS.'

"Moore told the Committee that the trip would be open to students in grades 9-11. She hopes to take the expedition in either April or '...preferably late June, at the end of the school year.'

"Because her preference is for a June trip, it would occur after the Senior Class has graduated. Moore also noted that the trip would be good for both science and Spanish language studies as Peru is a Spanish-speaking nation.

"She plans on taking between 12 and 18 students with two or three teachers acting as chaperones. Now that Moore has received approval, she will start advertising the trip to her students and send flyers to the Middle School so that incoming freshmen will be aware of it. In this way, interested students will have a chance to start earning money for the cost of the trip, estimated at $2,800.

"The estimated costs include airfare and land costs. The chaperones receive a free trip for every six students taking the trip...."

'Reorg' in Wakefield

"The Wakefield School Committee held a meeting to address business and educational related issues," notes the Wakefield edition of the "Daily Times Chronicle."

"During the gathering, held at the Greenwood Elementary School, it was noted that with the Town Election scheduled to take place, the meeting would be School Committee Chairwoman Mary Tecce's last.

Care and prevention of varicose veins

When you think of varicose veins, perhaps you think of older women wearing support hosiery. While some female seniors do wear support hose because of varicose veins, there's more to the condition than just hosiery.

Varicose veins are enlarged veins close to the skin's surface. They are dark purple or blue in color and may look twisted and bulging like cords. Any vein can become varicose, but it usually happens to veins in the legs and feet. For some, they are merely a cosmetic concern. For others, they cause aches, pains and more serious problems like higher risk of circulatory disorders, according to various medical experts.

SYMPTOMS AND FACTORS

Some signs and symptoms of varicose veins include:

- * enlarged veins that you can easily see under your legs
- * brown-gray discoloration of the skin, especially around the ankle
- * itching around one or more of your veins
- * feelings in your legs such as soreness, achiness, tiredness, tingling, burning, heaviness, throbbing, muscle cramping and swelling

Varicose veins occur when your veins malfunction because of factors like:

age: Those who are ages 30 to 70 are most susceptible.

sex: Women are more likely than men to get them because of hormonal changes during puberty, pregnancy and menopause. Pregnant women may develop them because their blood flow is re-designed to support a growing fetus. The side effect is that blood flow from the legs to the pelvis decreased, producing enlarged veins in the legs.

genetics: You have a higher chance of getting them if other family members have had the condition as well.

obesity: Excess weight can put more pressure on your veins.

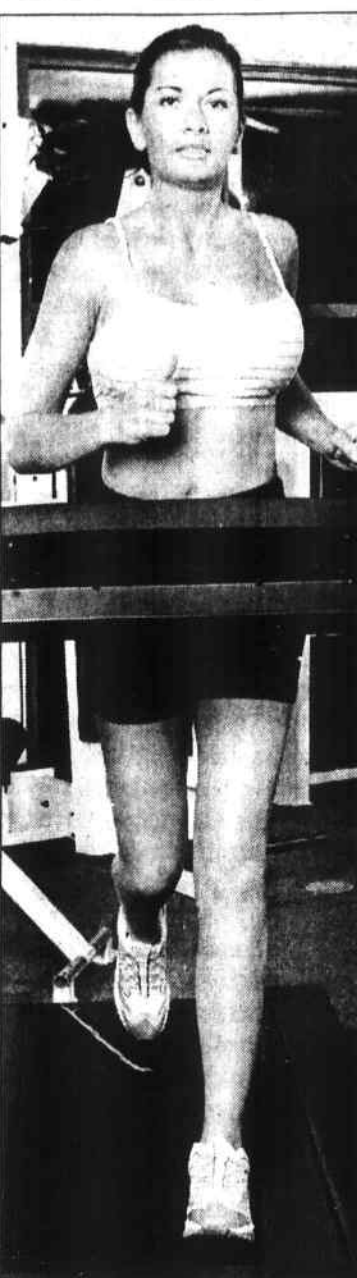

standing for long periods of time: It causes improper blood circulation.

Fortunately, there are numerous noninvasive ways to deal with varicose veins. You can ease pain and prevent varicose veins from worsening by wearing support stockings that provide relief. If you get them during pregnancy, they usually improve without treatment after your baby is born.

Your doctor can suggest more aggressive medical treatments if those mentioned don't work, such as laser therapy. Just be aware that some insurance policies may not cover the cost of elective surgery for varicose veins. Treatment may be covered, however, if the surgery is more health-related.

PREVENTION

Improving circulation and muscle tone can reduce the risk of developing varicose veins now and in the future. Exercise can help increase your circulation. Watching your figure can prevent your legs from having to support extra weight. Avoid high heels and tight clothes that restrict circ-

At 12 noon, Sensei Ryan and his top student Sempai Jim Sullivan will perform a Brick Breaking Demonstration. They will attempt to break 2" concrete bricks that will be lying on top of eggs and glasses.

"When we break bricks using Ki energy, not power, the bricks will break, but the eggs and glasses will stay intact." A $1.00 raffle at the door will buy you a chance to win a Mountain Bike. In addition, Sensei Ryan will be conducting a free karate seminar for all the kids that attend the Grand Opening.

The main program that is offered at Wellness Through Karate will be the martial art known as Chinese Kara-Ho Kempo Karate.

Sensei Ryan believes, "This is a great martial art to learn how to protect oneself. It is a complete system that offers a solid foundation in the arts. Offering an unlimited amount of knowledge, the student could actually train for an entire lifetime, and not learn it all!" Other programs being offered include: aerobic kickboxing, introduction courses for karate and t'ai chi, cross-training for high-school and college athletes, as well as, a meditation class.

Sensei Ryan just returned from San Diego where he trained with his Grandmaster, Samuel Alama Kuoha and the top Black Belts in the Chinese Kara-Ho Kempo Karate System. Grandmaster Kuoha is a 10th degree black belt and currently runs the Chinese Kara-Ho Kempo Karate System.

The Wellness Through Karate Studio will be open every afternoon and evening Monday through Friday, and Saturdays from 9:00a.m. to 12:00noon.

You can reach Sensei Ryan at 781-942-1485. Free classes are offered to every new student. If you sign up on or before the Grand Opening on June 18, 2005, you will receive some great discounts. Discounts will also be offered for family memberships and for students of the Reading Public School System.

"Come down and join the celebration! We welcome everyone to attend the Grand Opening. Ask questions, learn about our programs, and meet our students." Wellness Through Karate One General Way, Reading, MA 01867-1485

HIKING HOLIDAY ON THE TRAILS

This 2005 season New England Hiking Holidays celebrates its 21st anniversary on the trails.

Trips run from 2 to 8 days and explore some of the most beautiful natural areas in the U.S. and abroad while staying at fine country inns and hotels. Groups are small (about 16 per trip) and 2 knowledgeable and enthusiastic guides offer choices of routes and paces each day. In this way it is able to accommodate many different hiking abilities, from casual to seasoned.

New England Hiking Holidays is based in New Hampshire's White Mountains and many of the trips explore New England's scenic trails. Other trips visit the Blue Ridge Mountains of North Carolina and Virginia, the Rockies in Colorado, California's Lake Tahoe and Wine Country, the Pacific Northwest, Arizona, Utah, New Mexico, Hawaii, the Canadian Maritimes and Europe.

New for 2005 is a spectacular introduction to Washington State's Olympic Peninsula as well as 3 trips that offer a quiet new concept. The "Walks Through History" are designed for people who want a little less of the hiking and a little more in the way of culture and history.

For more information call 800-869-0949 or www.nehiking-holidays.com.

Home to relax in and enjoy

THIS HOUSE HAS WONDERFUL CURB APPEAL and a pretty, spacious back yard.

Hold your breath when you drive up to this beauty...hold your heart when you open the front door. From the sweet foyer to the great entertainment flow on the first floor, you'll have plenty of space to greet and entertain friends and family.

From the front walk way and cozy corner garden to the 'pest-free' gazebo, fieldstone patio and 'football field'-sized yard, you'll fall in love with this home before you even get inside. Gorgeous, pristine and lovingly maintained, the lot features an exquisite, lush and grand, fenced . acre (large enough for future pool and tennis court). Enjoy the 14 X 10 gazebo with cable and electricity. There's loads of exterior storage in the two sheds, and the lot is trimmed with both scalloped-stockade and split-rail fences, and backs to quiet woods. The front and side yards have a sprinkler system. All this plus the property is conveniently located close to the Reading line and to major routes for easy commuting.

Inside, this 8-room, 4-bedroom, 2 full bath Antique Colonial boasts hardwood and honey pine floors, a new kitchen and fabulous finished walk-up third level with fourth bedroom (perfect for a master suite, teenage get-away or au pair). The basement, with its extra-high ceiling, has great future expansion potential. This fine property is currently listed at $524,900, and is being marketed by Bobbie Botticelli of Colonial Manor Realty. For more information on this very special home or to arrange a private viewing, call Bobbie at (781) 944-6300, or stop by the offices of Colonial Manor Realty at 127 Franklin Street in Reading (across from HomeGoods).

Modular homes very popular

Modular home construction is fast becoming the building choice for today's homeowners. The time where people equated modular homes to a glorified mobile home constructed of low-end materials and generic products is now over. Today's modular homes are setting standards for distinctiveness, quality, efficiency and affordability.

The modular homes of today are built stronger, using 1/3 more structural material than traditional "stick-built" homes. They are built in a controlled environment using state-of-the-art technology resulting in superior quality ensuring protection of your modular unit from inclement weather and damaged materials. Modular homes are also 30% more energy efficient than the Model Energy Code, giving their homes an Energy Star rating and the homeowner significant savings in heating and cooling costs. Third-party inspections are performed at every stage of the construction process by an independent state licensed agency ensuring that the construction exceeds our state and local codes. Most importantly, modular construction saves you time and money. From the moment you order your home to the time you move in is approximately 3 months. Modular construction gives you the same options of today's "stick-built" homes all while coming in well below the cost of a traditional built home, saving you an average of about 20% or more. The customer will know the exact cost for the modular home in advance thus avoiding any cost overruns keeping them on budget throughout their project.

At Pioneer Homes, a Lynnfield based modular home dealer, they have over 150 stocked models which can be customized to your individual needs. Their homes are as distinct as their homeowner's are unique. Whether you desire a small cozy 800 square foot Ranch or a large custom designed "modular mansion", complete with cherry kitchens, granite, arches, vaulted ceilings, you name it, their homes can be built to just about any specification, size and include numerous amenities.

Homeowner's are thrilled to know that they are offered unlimited choices. In addition to building their customer's dream home, Pioneer Homes has also found a very popular trend among their customers who utilize modular technology to build their retirement or vacation homes from Connecticut all the way to northern New Hampshire.

Customers may choose to have their entire construction project managed by their team of professionals from site-work all the way to finished landscaping.

They also offer homeowners the choice to save thousands of dollars by acting as their own "general contractor". If the customer is willing to be involved in the hiring and scheduling of the sub-contractors and maybe even doing some of the work themselves, they could save another 20%-25% off those fees.

Combining the benefits of modular building with the ability to customize homes all while saving time and money is simply put, a better way to build.

For more information on Pioneer Homes you may reach them at 781-334-6300 or visit them on the web at www.PioneerHomeBuilders.com. Their new office is located at 26 Main Street, in Lynnfield.

Set the Stage for Better Rates!

Don't wait to refinance - mortgage rates are still low!

Our experienced Home Mortgage Consultants will do a quick analysis to see if you would benefit from:

- An interest rate refinance that would lower monthly payments
- A term reduction that would pay off your home more quickly and save thousands in interest payments
- A refinance from an ARM or balloon to a safe, predictable fixed-rate
- A cash-out refinance to put your home's equity at your disposal for debt consolidation, home improvements, etc.

We offer personal service, quick decisions, a broad menu of mortgage options and little or no documentation to those who qualify.

You need to act fast...before rates rise again.

Economical Elkins provides room to grow

By Associated Designs

The Elkins is a compact, four-bedroom plan, well-suited to the needs of a young family. Empty nesters wishing to downsize will also appreciate its ease of maintenance, along with having extra bedrooms and a bonus room available for hobbies, or to host visiting family and friends.

Wooden posts support the roof extension that covers the front porch. Inside, a convenient coat closet is immediately behind the front door, which opens into the living room. A gas fireplace creates a focal point on the outer wall, and nearby, a stairway winds up the far wall.

The C-shaped kitchen at the rear is entirely open to the dining area. Sliding glass doors open to a patio, ideal for outdoor dining when the weather is inviting. The patio could be roofed and screened, if desired.

Utilities and a step-in pantry are mere steps away, in a passthrough room that links the house to the garage.

Elkins
PLAN 30-466

rage. This will be appreciated when it's storming outside and you have a car full of groceries to unload.

In the Elkins' master suite, folding doors conceal a wide, walk-in closet. The sleeping area offers direct access to a bathroom, complete with combined tub and shower.

Three more bedrooms and a bonus room are upstairs, along with a second bathroom. Bedroom three has a walk-in closet. Two more closets are in the hallway, one for linen, and the other for general storage.

The bonus room over the garage is fairly large — 20 feet deep — with sloping ceilings along the sides. Access is from the Elkins' second floor hallway. It could be used for storage, a home office, hobby room, music studio, or whatever suits.

For a review plan, including scaled floor plans, elevations, section and artist's conception, send $25 to Associated Designs, 1100 Jacobs Dr., Eugene, OR 97402. Please specify the Elkins 30-466 and include a return address when ordering. A catalog featuring more than 400 home plans is available for $15. ## Want a better night's sleep?

How many times have you woken up after a long night's sleep only to feel like you didn't sleep at all? You just don't feel well rested, so you try to catch up on the weekends.

It's important to get a proper night's sleep because it affects your productivity, memory, reaction time, alertness and patience. But there's no one rule to follow to get the best sleep possible. Since sleep is so personal, what is helpful for one person might not work for another. See what works for you of these tips from sleep experts. You might want to try one, two, or a combination of tips to get a good, quality sleep. If your sleeping problems persist, consult your doctor. You might have a sleep disorder that warrants medical attention.

1. Maintain a regular bedtime and wake up schedule. Try to stick to that sleep schedule, even on the weekends. Consistency helps alert your body to when it's time to go to sleep and wake up.

2. It's best to sleep only at night. Daytime naps will steal hours from your nighttime slumber.

3. Create an ideal sleep environment. It should be comfortable and cool. The room should be quiet, without the noise of a radio or TV. Use a fan or earplugs to mask sounds like trains, airplanes, traffic or a snoring partner.

4. Your mattress should not be too small, soft, hard or old. Look for one that offers adequate comfort and support. And if you share your bed, make sure there's enough room for two.

5. Finish all exercise and consumption of food, caffeine, alcohol, chocolate and nicotine a few hours before bedtime. All of these items can interfere with your sleep. If you do need to eat, indulge in foods that trigger serotonin, which makes you tired. Try bread, cereal, milk, tuna or turkey. For a beverage, sip warm milk or herbal tea (such as chamomile or ginseng).

6. Physical activity promotes a better sleep. Just be sure to exercise in the afternoon or early evening so you aren't full of energy at bedtime.

7. Don't ponder a list of worries before you go to bed. Do all that before you are ready for bed so you aren't up half the night thinking about them.

8. Use the bed just for sleeping. Light from computers or televisions can inhibit sleep. If you do need to read before you go to sleep, use a low-wattage bulb, such as 15.

9. If you wake up in the middle of the night, don't look at the clock. It will only make you agonize over the fact that you aren't asleep.

10. Can't go to sleep? A hot shower or bath can be conducive to sleep because it relaxes muscles.
